Suicide Risk Assessment Guide:

Suicide Risk Management Sonia Chehil, Stanley P. Kutcher, 2012-02-06 Suicide Risk Management A Manual for Health Professionals is a short clearly written book that provides practical guidance on how to manage the suicidal or potentially suicidal patient. Written by two expert teachers, the book has been used in courses for trainee psychiatrists and for health professionals throughout the world. Feedback from participants on these courses has informed revision of the new edition. This book is of interest for all mental health professionals who come into contact with patients who present with suicide potential, i.e. all mental health professionals as well as general health professionals who are often the first point of contact for a suicidal patient. The book opens with a review of the epidemiology, risk factors, and associated aspects of suicide. It then presents two assessment tools. The Tool for Assessment of Suicide Risk (TASR) provides instruction on how to use it appropriately in the clinic. The Suicide Risk Assessment Guide (SRAG) acts as a self-study program to assess clinical evaluation skills. Both tools were created for use in the authors' own practice and are now successfully taught to and used by health professionals around the world. Refined through actual experience, these proven tools help assess and evaluate patients with confidence. Case vignettes allow the reader to practice using the information they have learned from the book. Throughout the book, bulleted lists, tables, and flowcharts effectively describe how to use the many factors to assess the risk of suicide in an individual patient. Advances in Psychiatry and Behavioral Health, E-Book 2022 Deepak Prabhakar, 2022-09-13 In this issue, guest editors bring their considerable expertise to this important topic. The numbers of wounded US troops exceed 16,000 in Afghanistan and 32,000 in Iraq. In addition to deaths and morbidity, the operations have unforeseen consequences that are yet to be fully understood. In contrast with previous conflicts, the all-volunteer military has experienced numerous deployments of individual service members; has seen increased deployments of women, parents of young children, and reserve and National Guard troops; and in some cases has been subject to longer deployments and shorter times at home between deployments. Numerous reports in the popular press have made the public aware of issues that have pointed to the difficulty of military personnel in readjusting after returning from Iraq and Afghanistan. Many of those who have served in OEF and OIF readjust with few difficulties, but others have problems in readjusting to home, reconnecting with family members, finding employment, and returning to school.

In response to the return of large numbers of veterans from Iraq and Afghanistan with physical health and mental health problems and to the growing readjustment needs of active duty service members veterans and their family members Congress included Section 1661 of the National Defense Authorization Act for fiscal year 2008 That section required the secretary of defense in consultation with the secretary of veterans affairs to enter into an agreement with the National Academies for a study of the physical health mental health and other readjustment needs of members and former members of the armed forces who were deployed in OIF or OEF their families and their communities as a result of such deployment The study consisted of two phases The Phase 1 task was to conduct a preliminary assessment The Phase 2 task was to provide a comprehensive assessment of the physical psychologic social and economic effects of deployment on and identification of gaps in care for members and former members their families and their communities The Phase 1 report was completed in March 2010 and delivered to the Department of Defense DOD the Department of Veterans Affairs VA and the relevant committees of the House of Representatives and the Senate The secretaries of DOD and VA responded to the Phase 1 report in September 2010
