Trade in Illicit Antiquities Neil Brodie, Jennifer Doole, Colin Renfrew, McDonald Institute for Archaeological Research, 2001 All over the world archaeological sites are being looted to feed an ever expanding antiquities market The phenomenon has been well documented by journalists and TV documentaries as much as by academic study but its true scale remains a matter for conjecture With this in mind in October 1999 the McDonald Institute convened an international symposium of archaeologists and other interested parties which allowed them to give accounts of looting in their own countries share their experiences and to consider possible remedies or preventative measures The proceedings of the Symposium are now published in this volume Who Owns the Past? American Council for Cultural Policy, 2005 Piscataway NJ Rutgers University Press in association with The American Council for Cultural Policy All the King's Horses Paula K. Lazrus, Alex Barker, 2012-06-27 This volume from the SAA Press examines the impact of looting and the use of artifacts of unknown provenance in the humanities and social sciences ranging from the impact of amnesty laws for reporting stolen cultural property to the use of Google Earth to assess the scale of illicit excavations and from the impact of poorly sourced artifacts on early Mycenaean and Minoan studies to the structure of the growing commercial trade in ancient coins Bulletin of the

Indo-Pacific Prehistory Association ,2009 "Old Things" on the Loose Julia J. Hollowell,2004 The Oxford Handbook of Public Archaeology Robin Skeates,Carol McDavid,John Carman,2012-01-05 Divided into four distinct sections and drawing across various disciplines this volume seeks to reappraise the place of archaeology in the contemporary world by providing a series of essays that critically engage with both old and current debates in the field of public archaeology American Doctoral Dissertations ,1997 Maya Subsistence Kent V. Flannery,2014-06-28 Maya Subsistence Archaeology of Entanglement Lindsay Der,Francesca Fernandini,2016-06-16 Entanglement theory posits that the interrelationship of humans and objects is a delimiting characteristic of human history and culture This edited volume of original studies by leading archaeological theorists applies this concept to a broad range of topics including archaeological science heritage and theory itself In the theoretical explications and ten case studies the editors and contributing authors build on the intersections between science humanities and ecology to provide a more fine grained multi scalar treatment emanating from the long term perspective that characterizes archaeological research bring to light the subtle and unacknowledged paths that configure historical circumstances and bind human intentionality examine the constructions of personhood the rigidity of path dependencies the unpredictable connections between humans and objects and the intricate paths of past events in varied geographic and historical contexts that channel future actions This broad focus is inclusive of early complex developments in Asia and Europe imperial and state strategies in the Andes and Mesoamerica continuities of postcolonialism in North America and the unforeseen and complex consequences that derive from archaeological practices This volume will appeal to archaeologists and their advanced students Intersections in International Cultural Heritage Law Anne-Marie Carstens,Elizabeth Varner,Elizabeth Chantale Varner,2020 The aim of this series is to publish significant and original research on and scholarly analysis of all aspects of cultural heritage law through the lens of international law private international law and comparative law The series is wide in scope traversing disciplines regions and viewpoints Topics given particular prominence are those which while of interest to academic lawyers have significant bearing on policymaking and current public discourse on the interaction between art heritage and the law Book jacket Collecting and Provenance Jane Milosch,Nick Pearce,2019-10-28 The study of provenance the history of the creation and ownership of an artefact work of art or specimen provides insights into the history of taste and collecting illuminating the social economic and historic trends in which an object was created and collected It is as much a history of people as it is of objects and its study often reveals intricate networks of relationships patterns of activity and motivations This book promotes the study of the history of collecting and collections in all their variety through the lens of provenance and explores the subject as a cross disciplinary activity Perhaps for the first time in a publication it draws on expertise ranging from art history and anthropology to natural history and law looking at periods from antiquity through the 18th century and the Holocaust era to the present and materials from Europe and the Americas to China and the Pacific The issues raised are wide ranging touching on aspects of authenticity cultural meaning and material transformation and economic and commercial drivers as well as collector and object biography The book fills a gap in the study of collecting and provenance taking the subject holistically and from multiple standpoints better to reflect the widening interest in provenance from a range of disciplinary perspectives This book will be a service to the field from established scholars and museum professionals to students of collecting history cultural heritage and museum studies Journal of American archaeology ,2004 Art Crime in Context Naomi

Oosterman,Donna Yates,2022-11-23 This book brings together empirical and theoretical case study research on art and heritage crime Drawn from a diverse group of researchers and professionals the work presented explores contemporary conceptualisations of art crime within broader contexts In this volume we see art in its usual forms for art crime scholarship in paintings and antiquities However we also see art in fossils and in violins chairs and jewellery holes in the ground and even in the institutions meant to protect any or all of the above And where there is art there is crime Chapters in this volume alternatively zoom in on specific objects on specific locations and on specific institutions considering how each interact with the various conceptions of crime that exist in those contexts This volume challenges the boundaries of what we understand as art and heritage crimes and displays that both art and criminality related to art is creative and unpredictable

International Heritage Law for Communities Lucas Lixinski,2019-05-30 This book critically engages the shortcomings of the field of international heritage law seen through the lenses of the five major UNESCO treaties for the safeguarding of different types of heritage It argues that these five treaties have effectively prevented local communities who bear the brunt of the costs associated with international heritage protection from having a say in how their heritage is managed The exclusion of local communities often alienates them not only from international decision making processes but also from their cultural heritage itself ultimately meaning that systems put in place for the protection of cultural heritage contribute to its disappearance in the long term International Heritage Law for Communities adds to existing literature by looking at these UNESCO treaties not as isolated regimes but rather as belonging to a discursive continuum on cultural heritage In doing so the book focuses on themes that cut across the relevant UNESCO regimes like the use of expert rule in international heritage law economics the relationship between heritage and the environment among others rather than the regimes themselves It uses this mechanism to highlight the blind spots and unintended consequences of UNESCO treaties and how choices made in their drafting have continuing and potentially negative impacts on how we think about and safeguard heritage
