Validating Technological Innovation David Coniam, Peter Falvey, 2016-04-02 This book discusses Hong Kong's use of onscreen marking OSM in public examinations. Given that Hong Kong leads the way in OSM innovation, this book has arisen from a recognised need to provide a comprehensive coherent account of the findings of various separate but linked validation studies of onscreen public examinations in Hong Kong. The authors discuss their experience of the validation process, demonstrating how high stakes innovation should be fully validated by a series of research studies in order to satisfy key stakeholders.

Poor Numbers Morten Jerven, 2013-01-24 One of the most urgent challenges in African economic development is to devise a strategy for improving statistical capacity. Reliable statistics, including estimates of economic growth rates and per capita income, are basic to the operation of governments in developing countries and vital to nongovernmental organizations and other entities that provide financial aid to them. Rich countries and international financial institutions such as the World Bank allocate their development resources on the basis of such data. The paucity of accurate statistics is not merely a technical problem; it has a massive impact on the welfare of citizens in developing countries. Where do these statistics originate? How accurate are they? Poor Numbers is the first analysis of the production and use of African economic development statistics. Morten Jerven's research shows how the statistical capacities of sub-Saharan African economies have fallen into disarray. The numbers substantially misstate the actual state of affairs. As a result, scarce resources are misapplied. Development policy does not deliver the benefits expected. Policymakers' attempts to improve the lot of the citizenry are frustrated. Donors have no accurate sense of the impact of the aid they supply. Jerven's findings from sub-Saharan Africa have far-reaching implications for aid and development policy. As Jerven notes, the current catchphrase in the development community is evidence-based policy, and scholars are applying increasingly sophisticated econometric methods, but no statistical techniques can substitute for partial and unreliable data.

The European Union, the World Bank and the Policymaking of Aid Eugenia Baroncelli, 2019-01-03 Based on the experience of the author, an IPE scholar and former trade policy consultant at the World Bank, WB, the book offers an in-depth exploration of the EU-WB relations conceptualized as hybrid delegation. Coupling cross-time analyses of their interaction in the regions of the Middle East and North Africa, Europe and Central Asia, and Sub-Saharan Africa with an original investigation on the coordination among the EU member states at the Executive Board of the International Bank for Reconstruction and Development over the voice and participation reform of 2008-2010, the book advances an innovative theoretical framework to assess the EU-WB joint institutional and field policy performances. Augmented PA models of delegation, role theory, and performance analyses are engaged and selectively recombined to investigate the nature, evolution, and impact of the interactions of the two organizations both in their everyday and constituent politics. Hybrid delegation in motion is reconstructed against the background of post-Washington Consensus and post-Lisbon EU to unveil the changing division of labour between the two largest development multilaterals of the new
