2015 Living Conditions Monitoring Survey (LCMS) Report, 2016 Standardized Regulations United States. Department of State, 1991 Women in Zambia Mercy Siame, 1998 Provides an overview of gender issues in Zambia focusing on gender gaps and gender discrimination DFID Great Britain: Parliament: House of Commons: Committee of Public Accounts, 2012-02-03 The DFID's transfer programmes deliver cash food and assets such as livestock directly to people living in poverty Transfers can be used to tackle a range of issues such as hunger and malnutrition or access to health and education services in a variety of contexts In 2010 11 the Department spent 192 million on social protection programmes which includes its transfer programmes The evidence heard suggests transfer programmes are effective in targeting aid and ensuring the money goes directly to the poorest and most vulnerable people It is therefore surprising that the use of transfer programmes has not increased The Department only plans to support transfer programmes in 17 of its 28 priority countries It does not have an overall strategy for the use of transfers and its decisions on where to support transfer programmes look reactive The decision as to whether or not to propose a transfer programme is taken by staff working in the country and it is not clear why there are extensive programmes in some countries and none in others The Department does not collect data on all the costs of the transfer programmes it supports and the Department is therefore unable to say whether it is lifting more people out of poverty for every pound spent on transfers compared to other programmes The Department's long term objective is for the governments of recipient countries to take on the responsibility of owning and funding transfers as part of a sustainable social security system However the Department has not been clear about how individual programmes will be sustained Education Sector Plans and their Implementation in Developing Countries Roy Carr-Hill, 2023-03-09 This book examines the factors affecting the successful implementation of Education Sector Plans in developing countries It provides a detailed comparison that draws on data from 27 countries to offer careful research conclusions and policy recommendations Offering a detailed comparison of the schooling situation e.g. availability of potable water and toilets provision for the disabled as well as educational outcomes both test scores and percentages out of school from the 27 countries using empirical evidence the book examines the resources that have been invested in different education sectors investigating the development and success of each plan The volume uses correlation analysis to compare factors including the availability of government funding national characteristics ministerial decisions influences of country and donor stakeholders as well as district and school level issues Thorough comparative analysis of the data is then demonstrated with two measures of achievements to identify which factors can be considered as the most important in order to reach realistic policy and research conclusions Timely and engaging this book will be of great interest to researchers scholars and postgraduate students in the field of education and international development comparative education and international education more broadly U.S. Exports, 1984-10 The Oxford Handbook of the Zambian Economy, 2024-08-23 This handbook offers a comprehensive and authoritative account of the Zambian economy including past and current trends The Zambian economy has evolved from simple and fragmented agrarian activities at the turn of the 20th Century into a wide range of organized and regulated modern economic activities today While the economy has largely revolved around the mining industry since the early 1920s when the extraction of copper and other mineral ores on the Copperbelt begun there has been a gradual broadening of economic activities over time with services now accounting for almost two thirds of gross domestic product GDP This book shows that since colonial times one of the persistent items on the economic development agenda in what is today known as Zambia has been the need to diversify the economy to reduce dependence on mining in terms of foreign exchange earnings and public revenue While the need to diversify the economy has been well acknowledged by successive Zambia governments including the current government achieving this goal has proved to be elusive so far By presenting a collection of well researched and empirically supported chapters on the key areas of the Zambian economy this volume gives readers a good sense of where the Zambian economy has come from where it is at the moment but also highlights the challenges and prospects for economic growth

The Skills Balancing Act in Sub-Saharan Africa Omar Arias,David K. Evans,Indhira Santos,2019-01-31 Despite strong recent economic growth Sub Saharan Africa has

levels of economic transformation poverty reduction and skill development far below those of other regions Smart investments in developing skills aligned with the policy goals of productivity growth inclusion and adaptability can help to accelerate the region's economic transformation in the 21st century Sub-Saharan Africa's growing working age population presents a major opportunity to increase shared prosperity Countries in the region have invested heavily in building skills public expenditure on education increased sevenfold over the past 30 years and more children are in school today than ever before Yet systems for building skills in this population have fallen short and these shortcomings significantly impede economic prospects In half of the countries fewer than two in every three children complete primary school even fewer reach and complete higher levels of education Learning outcomes have been persistently poor leading to substantial gaps in basic cognitive skills literacy and numeracy among children young people and adults The literacy rate of the adult population is below 50 percent in many countries functional literacy and numeracy rates are even lower Systemwide change is required to achieve significant progress Multiple agencies at the central and local levels are involved in skills development strategies making skills everyone's problem but no one's responsibility Policies and reforms need to build capacity for evidence-based policies and create incentives to align the behaviors of all stakeholders with the pursuit of national skills development goals The Skills Balancing Act in Sub-Saharan Africa Investing in Skills for Productivity Inclusivity and Adaptability lays out evidence to inform the policy choices that countries will make in skill investments Each chapter addresses a set of specific questions drawing on original analysis and synthesis of existing studies to explore key areas How the skills appropriate to each stage of the life cycle are acquired and what market and institutional failures affect skills formation What systems are needed for individuals to access these skills including family investments private sector institutions schools and other public programs How those systems can be strengthened How the most vulnerable individuals those who fall outside the standard systems and have missed critical building blocks in skills acquisition can be supported Countries will face trade-offs often stark ones that will have distributional impacts and a bearing on their development path Committed leaders reform coalitions and well-coordinated policies are essential for taking on the skills balancing act in Sub-Saharan Africa
