Accountability in education: meeting our commitments UNESCO,2017-10-30 The second edition of the Global Education Monitoring Report GEM Report presents the latest evidence on global progress towards the education targets of the UN Sustainable Development Goals With hundreds of millions of people still not going to school and many not achieving minimum skills at school it is clear education systems are off track to achieve global goals The marginalized currently bear the most consequences but also stand to benefit the most if policy makers pay sufficient attention to their needs Faced with these challenges along with tight budgets and increased emphasis on results oriented value for money countries are searching for solutions Increased accountability often tops the list The 2017 8 GEM Report shows the entire array of approaches to accountability in education It ranges from countries unused to the concept where violations of the right to education go unchallenged to countries where accountability has become an end in itself instead of a means to inclusive equitable and high quality education and lifelong learning for all The report emphasizes that education is a shared responsibility While governments have primary responsibility all actors schools teachers parents students international organizations private sector providers civil society and the media 0 3 have a role in improving education systems The report emphasized the importance of transparency and availability of information but urges caution in how data are used It makes the case for avoiding accountability systems with a disproportionate focus on narrowly defined results and punitive sanctions In an era of multiple accountability tools the report provides clear evidence on those that are working and those that are not Back cover

Cyclones in Southern Africa Godwell Nhamo,David Chikodzi,2021-09-28 Tropical cyclones in Southern Africa also known as hurricanes or typhoons in other regions of the world is a hot subject for academic research. This focus has been magnified by the need to consider tropical cyclones in the context of other global development agendas that includes the 2030 Agenda for Sustainable Development and its inseparable 17 Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs), the Paris Agreement, the Sendai Framework for Disaster Risk Reduction, and Habitat III's New Urban Agenda. The ambitious SDGs challenge global and community leaders to make sure development addresses the nexus among poverty, inequality, and employment creation as well as care for the earth and its natural resources and biodiversity. The SDGs further present an agenda to eradicate hunger, bring quality education, and sustain water and sanitation. The infrastructure development, human settlements, sustainable consumption and production, climate change, biodiversity, and the ocean blue economy agendas are also pitched. Lastly, the 2030 Agenda for Sustainable Development encourages partnerships on delivering various programmes and projects at all spatial levels. However, as tropical cyclones continue to make multiple landfalls and ravage Southern Africa and other parts of the world, the achievement of the 2030 Agenda for Sustainable Development is threatened. To this end, this book addresses this gap by documenting the implications of tropical cyclones, drawing examples and case studies from recent tropical cyclones such as cyclone Idai and cyclone Kenneth that resulted in catastrophic impacts in 2019. The book comes as part of a series with three volumes. The other volumes include Cyclones in Southern Africa Vol 1: Interfacing the Catastrophic Impact of Cyclone Idai with SDGs in Zimbabwe and Cyclones in Southern Africa Vol 2: Foundational and Fundamental Topics. Given the foregoing, the book is suitable as a read for several professionals and disciplines such as tourism and hospitality studies, economics, sustainable development, development studies, environmental sciences, arts, geography, life sciences, politics, planning, and public health.

The Skills Balancing Act in Sub-Saharan Africa Omar Arias, David K. Evans, Indhira Santos, 2019-01-31. Despite strong recent economic growth, Sub-Saharan Africa has levels of economic transformation, poverty reduction, and skill development far below those of other regions. Smart investments in developing skills aligned with the policy goals of productivity, growth, inclusion, and adaptability can help to accelerate the region's economic transformation in the 21st century. Sub-Saharan Africa's growing working-age population presents a major opportunity to increase shared prosperity. Countries in the region have invested heavily in building skills; public expenditure on education increased sevenfold over the past 30 years, and more children are in school today than ever before. Yet systems for building skills in this population have fallen short, and these shortcomings significantly impede economic prospects. In half of the countries, fewer than two in every three children complete primary school; even fewer reach and complete higher levels of education. Learning outcomes have been persistently poor, leading to substantial gaps in basic cognitive skills, literacy, and numeracy among children, young people, and adults. The literacy rate of the adult population is below 50 percent in many countries; functional literacy and numeracy rates are even lower. Systemwide change is required to achieve significant progress. Multiple agencies at the central and local levels are involved in skills development strategies, making skills everyone's problem, but no one's responsibility Policies and reforms need to build capacity for evidence based policies and create incentives to align the behaviors of all stakeholders with the pursuit of national skills development goals The Skills Balancing Act in Sub Saharan Africa Investing in Skills for Productivity Inclusivity and Adaptability lays out evidence to inform the policy choices that countries will make in skill investments Each chapter addresses a set of specific questions drawing on original analysis and synthesis of existing studies to explore key areas How the skills appropriate to each stage of the life cycle are acquired and what market and institutional failures affect skills formation What systems are needed for individuals to access these skills including family investments private sector institutions schools and other public programs How those systems can be strengthened How the most vulnerable individuals those who fall outside the standard systems and have missed critical building blocks in skills acquisition can be supported Countries will face trade offs often stark ones that will have distributional impacts and a bearing on their development path Committed leaders reform coalitions and well coordinated policies are essential for taking on the skills balancing act in Sub Saharan Africa
