International Handbook of Urban Education William T. Pink, George W. Noblit, 2008-09-03 It is evident that urban education has become the central focus of educators at the present time In the U S for example almost one third of all school age children attend schools in large urban school districts It is in these urban schools where the diversity of cultures and languages is highest and where student learning is most problematic What has emerged from recent work to improve urban schools is the insight that there is no one size fits all panacea Rather we have discovered that the local context shapes in critically important ways what will be effective at the school level The universality of the problematics with urban education together with the importance of understanding the local or situated context of improvement interventions brings into sharp focus the importance and timeliness of an undertaking like the International Handbook of Urban Education An important focus of the International Handbook of Urban Education will be the interrogation of both the social and political factors that lead to different problem posing and subsequent solutions within each region An important question to be answered for example is what it takes in terms of resources political will and policy actions to improve urban education Moto ,1998 relating these to Marxist thought Challenger remarked that Robinson's unique contribution to economics lies not only in her recognition of the full significance of the Keynesian revolution and its relationship to Marxist theory but also in the manner in which on these bases she has forged new theoretical tools to tackle a remarkable variety of economic problems. This is the first complete publication of her essays in the United States. The volumes cover the period from the early 1930s to the mid 1970s and are valuable both for their spirited writing and the challenging originality of Robinson's thought. Volume I covers topics ranging from Euler's Theorem and problems of distribution to exchange equilibrium and international trade and features a section devoted to expounding and defending Keynes's General Theory. Volume II in the author's words belongs to the field of what is sometimes called post Keynesian economics. Volume III contains four groups of papers: the first mainly controversial discussions of basic economic theory; the second and third developing the post Keynesian tradition with relation to Marxist theory; the fourth contains Robinson's observations from her trips to communities in China and North Korea and her travels in India. Volume IV continues the debate about so-called capital theory in the first section developing special points in theoretical analysis and opening up questions such as the need for reconstruction of the theory of international trade; the second section contains reprints from Essays in the Theory of Employment published in 1936. The third section reprints a little-known pamphlet published by the Students Bookshop Cambridge in 1953. Volume V contains five sections: the first papers being mainly concerned with a survey of contemporary economic theory; the second consisting of two surveys of international trade and markets; the third discussing the disintegration of teaching of the Keynesian Revolution; the fourth addressing the problems of the Third World especially India; and the fifth containing a number of papers arguing for a non-dogmatic treatment of Marx. An index to all the volumes completes the collection.
