Arachnid Dichotomous Key

One kind of arachnid, the wind scorpion, is so named because it seems to run as fast as the wind. The sea spider, another arachnid, lives on the ocean floor. The trapdoor spider digs a hole in the ground, covers it with a silk trapdoor, camouflages the trapdoor with leaves, and waits for its prey to walk across the trapdoor. When its prey passes above, the spider feels the vibrations and opens the trapdoor to make the capture. These arachnids are only three examples of the thousands of different types of arachnids. Arachnids, as well as other organisms, are often identified by their physical traits. A dichotomous key, based on visible physical traits, can help you identify members of a group of related organisms. Dichotomous means branching into two parts. As you use a dichotomous key, you read pairs of descriptions and decide which description of each pair is true for the organism you are trying to identify.

Using a Dichotomous Key

- Before you use the dichotomous key to identify the arachnids, review arachnid anatomy by studying the diagrams below. In all arachnids, the body is divided into two sections: the cephalothorax and the abdomen. Find the cephalothorax and the abdomen in each arachnid. Note how these body sections are joined. Observe whether the abdomen is segmented or lacks segments (example "h" is segmented). All arachnids have six pairs of appendages: one pair of jaws, 4 pairs of walking legs, and one pair of pedipalps.
- Use the dichotomous key to identify each arachnid. Beginning with the first pair of statements, decide which statement is true for the arachnid. Proceed to the next pair of statements as directed by the key. When the key lists a name rather than a number, then you have identified the arachnid.

Aspiring young biologists will discover an amazing group of inspiring scientists and memorable experiments in Biology for Kids the second book of The Kitchen Pantry Scientist series. Play disease detective to learn how John Snow tracked down the source of a cholera epidemic. Learn about biologist Ernest Everett Just's discoveries and experiment with osmosis using eggs with dissolved shells. Make your own agar plates for growing bacteria and fungi just like Fannie Hess. This engaging guide offers a series of snapshots of 25 scientists famous for their work with biology from ancient history through today. Each lab tells the story of a scientist along with some background about the importance of their work and a description of where it is still being used or reflected in today's world. A step by step illustrated experiment paired with each story offers kids a hands on opportunity for exploring concepts the scientists pursued or are working on today. Experiments range from very simple projects using materials you probably already have on hand to more complicated ones that may require a few inexpensive items you can purchase online. Just a few of the incredible people and scientific concepts you'll explore: Maria Sibylla Merian b 1647 Observe photograph and illustrate insects on plants. Scientific concepts observation and documentation of insect habitat and metamorphosis. Charles Darwin b 1809 Play a competitive advantage game. Scientific concepts natural selection and evolution. Louis Pasteur b 1822 Make a flask like Pasteur's to grow microbes from the air. Scientific concepts microbial fermentation and germ theory. Rae Wynn Grant b 1985 Use cookie crumbs to attract ants. Observe the behavior of ants and other animals. Scientific concepts ecology and animal behavior. Biology is the name for the study of living organisms but long before the word biologist was coined people around the world realized that by studying the world around them they could improve their lives. Learning about plants and insects helped them discover new medicines and grow better crops. Studying animals taught them how to raise healthy poultry, cattle and horses for food farming and transportation. Today's biologists study everything imaginable. From oceans, jungles and cities to the space station the universe is their laboratory. Like those who went before them they are fascinated by plants, animals and microbes and understand that their discoveries can make the world a better place for all living things. With this fascinating hands on exploration of the history of biology inspire the next generation of great scientists. Dig into even more incredible science history from The Kitchen Pantry Scientist series with Chemistry for Kids, Physics for Kids, Math for Kids and Ecology for Kids.
