

Establishing an effective energy industry response to Ebola

The World Health Organisation (WHO) is creating a global network of experts to help countries deal with Ebola outbreaks.

Dr Brian O'Leary

The world's largest health company has taken an immediate call on the Ebola crisis. The company has announced that it will provide support to the world health, who are currently facing the spread of the disease.

While the health industry is the backbone of every nation, it is essential to be able to provide support to the health industry in the event of a global health crisis.

This is achieved by the following: the company has a global network of experts who can provide support to the health industry in the event of a global health crisis.
