Integers, Polynomials, and Rings Ronald S. Irving, 2004-01-08 This book began life as a set of notes that I developed for a course at the University of Washington entitled Introduction to Modern Algebra for Teachers Originally conceived as a text for future secondary school mathematics teachers it has developed into a book that could serve well as a text in an undergraduate course in abstract algebra or a course designed as an introduction to higher mathematics This book differs from many undergraduate algebra texts in fundamental ways the reasons lie in the book's origin and the goals I set for the course The course is a two quarter sequence required of students intending to fill the requirements of the teacher preparation option for our B A degree in mathematics or of the teacher preparation minor It is required as well of those intending to matriculate in our university s Master s in Teaching program for secondary mathematics teachers This is the principal course they take involving abstraction and proof and they come to it with perhaps as little background as a year of calculus and a quarter of linear algebra The mathematical ability of the students varies widely as does their level of mathematical interest

An Elementary Treatise on Algebra James Thomson,1845 Computer Logic Alan Rose,1971 The Publishers' Circular Sampson Low,1863 A History of Chinese Mathematics Jean-Claude Martzloff,2007-08-17

Since the end of the 19th century a number of specialised journals albeit with a large audience have regularly included articles on the history of Chinese mathematics while a number of books on the history of mathematics include a chapter on the subject Thus the progressive increase in our knowledge of the content of Chinese mathematics has been accompanied by the realisation that as far as results are concerned there are numerous similarities between Chinese mathematics and other ancient and medieval mathematics For example Pythagoras theorem the double false position rules Hero s formulae and Ruffini Harner s method are found almost everywhere As far as the reasoning used to obtain these results is concerned the fact that it is difficult to find rational justifications in the original texts has led to the reconstitution of proofs using appropriate tools of present day elementary algebra Consequently the conclusion that Chinese mathematics is of a fundamentally algebraic nature has been ventured However in recent decades new studies particularly in China and Japan have adopted a different approach to the original texts in that they have considered the Chinese modes of reasoning as these can be deduced from the rare texts which contain justifications By studying the results and the methods explicitly mentioned in these texts hand in hand this Chinese and Japanese research has attempted to reconstruct the conceptions of ancient authors within a given culture and period without necessarily involving the convenient but often distorting social and conceptual framework of present day mathematics
