1. Consider the figure on the right in the following questions, and give an example of each type of behavior:
 - a. Waves strike at normal incidence.
The wave would bounce at reflect off the surface at normality.
 - b. Waves strike at slight obliquity.
The wave is reflected at different angle, passed the edge or opening.
 - c. Waves strike from one medium to another.
The wave would bend or reflect as they passed from one medium to another.
 - d. Waves pass through small hole.
The wave would diffract as the surface, and would pass through the surface.

1. I have two identical cylindrical containers, each has water that will have the same density, and have the incoming water poured in each case. I add each one characteristic of the water.

Rubinson,Kenneth A. Rubinson,1998 This book provides a readable yet rigorous introduction to analytical methods with a focus on problem solving skills It stresses the fundamental concepts of chemical analysis and through examples from current journals and other science media shows how the principles and practice of analytical chemistry are used to produce answers to questions in all areas of scientific study and practice Features a balance of topics that is closer to contemporary analytical practice than those covered by other books Introduces the tools that are ubiquitous in analytical chemistry e g statistics sampling and sample preparation Discusses methods depending on chemical kinetics which are so widely used in medicine and biology Features a number of problems that call for the use of a spreadsheet to generate data which is then plotted to show trends Includes answers for all numerical problems in an appendix The Biological Basis for Mind Body Interactions E.A. Mayer,C.B. Saper,2000-02-03 The current volume focuses on several key aspects of mind brain body interactions in health and disease including specific examples of interactions between body and brain mechanisms underlying the response of the system to stressors the role of early life events in permanently biasing the responsiveness of the system and practical implications of mind body interactions in human disease The volume on Biological Basis for Mind Body Interactions is organized into 6 major sections each dealing with a unique aspect of the general topic After establishing the relationship between mind brain and emotions the first section deals with general neurobiological aspects mediating the effect of stress on various organ systems including the immune and cardiovascular system The second section covers the topic of how early life stressor can permanently alter responsiveness of the nervous system in animals and in man The third section deals with influences of the internal environment mediated by neuroendocrine and visceral afferent pathways on the CNS The fourth section which deals with influences of body on the brain focuses on mechanisms involved in perception and modulation of pain The fifth section deals with influences of the mind brain on the body with an emphasis on central and peripheral mechanisms of autonomic control of body functions The last section deals with a series of practical issues of mind body treatments including acupuncture breathing body work and meditation In addition issues such as cost effectiveness and research aspects are discussed Authors in this last section frequently refer to topics and mechanisms addressed in the early sections making it a truly integrated volume The unique aspect of the volume is the integration of state of the art research information on biological and practical aspects of mind brain body interactions It is based on the beliefs of the editors and participants that the traditional separation of mind and body in research and in treatment of human disease is obsolete and needs to be replaced with a new unifying paradigm Ironically this evolving paradigm shares many similarities with ancient pre Cartesian paradigms of health and disease
