

The Outsiders

by S. E. Hinton

Please answer the following questions on a separate sheet of paper.

Chapter 1

1. Who are the Socs? Who are the Greasers?

Socs - rich, madras, mustangs, East side

Greasers - poor, t-shirts and jeans, West side

2. How is Pony's relationship with Darry different from his relationship with Soda?

Darry is more like a father-figure to Pony. He loves him, but they argue a lot and he is hard on him. Soda and Pony are friends. He really understands Pony and they have a lot in common.

3. Why is the "gang" so important to Johnny?

He relies on them like family, because his father abuses him and his mother ignores him.

4. Do you think Darry loves Pony? Why does he treat Pony the way he does?

Yes, he does love Pony. He is hard on Pony because he doesn't want him to get in trouble because then the boys would be split up. He wants Pony to have a good life.

5. Explain what Pony means when he says, "I lie to myself all the time". Why do you think people lie to themselves?

He tries to convince himself something is truth. For example, he tries to convince himself that he doesn't care that Darry doesn't love him, but he does care whether or not Darry loves him.

Chapter 2

1. Who are Cherry and Marcia?

Two Socy girls Pony and Johnny picked up at the drive-in.

2. Why is it strange that Cherry and Pony get along so well?

Socs and Greasers shouldn't get along, but Cherry and Pony have a lot in common - sunsets, dreamers, school.

3. According to Two-Bit, what is a "fair fight"? Why don't Socs fight fair?

and Praying Band service During this latter service in a maneuver that scholars might refer to as a ring shout participants formed a circle with a leader in the center singing and clapping their hands stamping their feet and swaying their bodies all the while they slowly raised several hymns and spirituals to a raucous rejoicing shouting crescendo concluding the meeting with an ebullient march around the entire encampment Although these bands shocked some outsiders and reminded other observers of Africa committed participants considered them to be the foundation of the church Camp meetings were not unique to this area or to that time at the dawn of the twentieth century Drawn by the heady combination of religious salvation and spiritual democracy advocated in these festivals Americans of various backgrounds had been making such yearly treks to camp meetings for over a hundred years Those early meetings gave form to a religious movement attuned to the ethos of the new nation In the frontier areas of Tennessee and Kentucky where they began camp meetings sponsored by various Protestant denominations became temporary sacred cities places of equality of souls and social solidarity that tempered the struggle to survive in the wilderness In the states of the upper South and in Pennsylvania these meetings also thrived Here where the camp meetings were predominantly organized by Methodists both free and enslaved African Americans participated in large numbers along with English and German speaking European Americans Perhaps because of Methodism's original antislavery witness in Maryland for example this denomination received most of the black converts while in 1800 approximately one fifth of the Methodists in Virginia were black At the beginning of the nineteenth century white and black people alike frequently attended the same religious services though often in segregated and unequal seating arrangements Yet that century witnessed a complex and powerful movement to establish separate religious institutions for black Methodists First came the effort to set up separate churches for Africans Eventually the Methodist Episcopal Church organized a separate conference for all black churches within its denomination A related movement led to the founding of independent African Methodist denominations Finally beginning before Emancipation but accelerating after freedom a similar but less remarked effort saw African American Methodists starting camp meetings of their own In the mid Atlantic region in particular these large outdoor African American religious events were the meetings that the grandparents and great grandparents of today's participants built and today's older people witnessed when young These camp meetings continue even in the twenty first century The camp meetings that the old soldiers of today recall were not unique they were merely one echo of the religious festivals that became a new secular democracy's first religious mass movement Yet the old timers of today recall above all other things those aspects of their camps that were unique That is they speak mostly about the Singing and Praying Bands for whom the camp meetings in this area became the primary regional showcases these bands made these meetings special They tell of the prayer meetings from which the camp meetings originated They speak also of the march around Jericho in which the Singing and Praying Bands led those at the camp meeting in a grand march around the entire campground on the final day of the meeting The Singing and Praying Bands of this area were special not just for the generations of participants in the African American camp meetings of the Atlantic coast states of the upper South. The antecedents of the twentieth century bands seem to have played a clandestine but significant role in the development of African American culture in general. Therefore the bands can stake a claim as important forces in the cultural and social history of America as a whole. Here is how it happened. At the end of the eighteenth century when enslaved Africans in this area began to take to Methodism in a big way the process of culture building by which Africans of various ethnic backgrounds began to transform themselves into one people was well underway. Yet that process was still incomplete. The new African American identity became consolidated throughout the South only during the first half of the nineteenth century when hundreds of thousands of enslaved Africans were traumatically sold from the states of the upper South to cotton growing areas of the Deep South. In the eighteenth century prior to this mass transfer of human property there had been two primary centers of slavery on the Atlantic coast of North America: coastal South Carolina and the Chesapeake Bay area. The ethnic mix of Africans imported into the two areas differed somewhat leading to the possibility that the emerging African American cultures of these areas might also have differed. Of these two centers the Chesapeake area had the larger number of slaves. In 1790 of all thirteen states Virginia had the largest population of Africans with 305,493 people. Maryland was second with 111,079. Virginia also had the largest number of enslaved Africans, 292,627, while Maryland's enslaved population of 103,036 was third largest. These two states also had the largest population of non-slave Africans at the time. In 1790 nearly 53 percent of the African population and 58 percent of the enslaved Africans in the country were in the upper South in the states of Virginia, Maryland, and Delaware. The nearby black populations of southeastern Pennsylvania and southwestern New Jersey had extensive cultural ties to their brethren in the upper South. This area where the upper South meets the mid-Atlantic states seems to have been one of several areas central to the formation of African American culture in the late eighteenth and early nineteenth centuries. Among the Africans in America of that time, for example, those who lived in the mid-Atlantic region and upper South were pioneers in building specifically black institutions. In 1787 Richard Allen, Absalom Jones, and others founded a mutual aid organization in Philadelphia called the Free African Society, initiating in the words of W. E. B. DuBois the first wavering step of a people toward organized social life. Numerous other grassroots benevolent and mutual aid organizations sprouted up at this time aiming to provide members financial assistance in case of sickness or death in the family. Under the leadership of Richard Allen in Philadelphia a group of black Methodists established the Bethel African Church in that city in 1794. In 1816 Bethel joined ranks with other independent black Methodist churches in Pennsylvania, New Jersey, and Baltimore to form the African Methodist Episcopal (A.M.E.) denomination. In Wilmington the denomination called the Union Church of Africans was established just prior to the founding of the A.M.E. Church. Along with new institutions a distinctly African American expressive culture was emerging in the upper South and mid-Atlantic region at the dawn of the nineteenth century. In 1819, for example, a white minister named John Fanning Watson who lambasted many

Methodists for what he saw as excesses in their worship gave us one of the earliest reports of a specifically black religious song tradition writing that the coloured people get together and sing for hours together short scraps of disjointed affirmations pledges or prayers lengthened out with long repetition choruses In the same paragraph Watson s description of these sacred performances by black worshippers is strikingly evocative of outdoor singing circles that the Singing and Praying Bands continue to this day This account predates by over twenty five years the earliest known description of a ring shout from the Atlantic coast area of the Deep South Another writer a Quaker schoolboy from Westtown School outside Philadelphia described black worshippers at an outdoor camp meeting in 1817 marching around an outdoor tabernacle singing a spiritual chorus and blowing a trumpet in a reenactment of the march around Jericho by Joshua and the Israelites that is similar to the march that the Singing and Praying Bands continue to do today If we look at these historical references with minds informed by the bands of today we can project the current tradition to have been already thriving two hundred years ago in the early years of the nineteenth century This nascent African American expressive culture articulated new belief systems that were forming among Africans in this area also to a certain extent in the context of Protestant evangelism Africans in America developed a variant of this branch of Protestantism that expressed protonationalist African American identity According to this theology of resistance African American Christians began to associate their experience in America with that of the Israelites in Egypt and the person of Jesus took on some of the qualities of Moses who would not fail to liberate the enslaved It was to some extent in the religious meetings of the upper South and in the language of this distinctive African American perspective that Gabriel Prosser and Nat Turner situated their rebellions in Virginia Continues Excerpted from Together Let Us Sweetly Live by Jonathan C David Copyright 2007 by the Board of Trustees of the University of Illinois Excerpted by permission All rights reserved No part of this excerpt may be reproduced or reprinted without permission in writing from the publisher Excerpts are provided by Dial A Book Inc solely for the personal use of visitors to this web site
