What Are People For Wendell Berry:

What Are People For? Wendell Berry, 2010-06-10 Ranging from America's insatiable consumerism and household economies to literary subjects and America's attitude toward waste here Berry gracefully navigates from one topic to the next He speaks candidly about the ills plaguing America and the growing gap between people and the land Despite the somber nature of these essays Berry's voice and prose provide an underlying sense of faith and hope He frames his reflections with poetic responsibility standing up as a firm believer in the power of the human race not only to fix its past mistakes but to build a future that will provide a better life for all

What Are People For? Wendell Berry, 1991 What are People For? Chanequa Walker-Barnes, 2019-10-01 Disrupting the racist and sexist biases in conversations on reconciliation Chanequa Walker Barnes offers a compelling argument that the Christian racial reconciliation movement is incapable of responding to modern day racism She demonstrates how reconciliation's roots in the evangelical male centered Promise Keepers movement has resulted in a patriarchal and largely symbolic effort focused upon improving relationships between men from various racial ethnic groups Walker Barnes argues that highlighting the voices of women of color is critical to developing any genuine efforts toward reconciliation Drawing upon intersectionality theory and critical race studies she demonstrates how living at the intersection of racism and sexism exposes women of color to unique experiences of gendered racism that are not about relationships but rather are about systems of power and inequity Refuting the idea that race and racism are one size fits all I Bring the Voices of My People highlights the particular work that White Americans must do to repent of racism and to work toward racial justice and offers a constructive view of reconciliation that prioritizes eliminating racial injustice and healing the damage that it has done to African Americans and other people of color
