Teaching World History in the Twenty-first Century: A Resource Book Heidi Roupp, 2015-02-12 This practical handbook is designed to help anyone who is preparing to teach a world history course or wants to teach it better It includes contributions by experienced teachers who are reshaping world history education and features new approaches to the subject as well as classroom tested practices that have markedly improved world history teaching Navigating World History P.

Manning, 2003-05-15 World history has expanded dramatically in recent years primarily as a teaching field and increasingly as a research field Growing numbers of teachers and Ph.D.s in history are required to teach the subject They must be current on topics from human evolution to industrial development in Song dynasty China to today's disease patterns and then link these disparate topics into a coherent course Numerous textbooks in print and in preparation summarize the field of world history at an introductory level But good teaching also requires advanced training for teachers and access to a stream of new research from scholars trained as world historians In this book Patrick Manning provides the first comprehensive overview of the academic field of world history He reviews patterns of research and debate and proposes guidelines for study by teachers and by researchers in world history Science and Technology in World History, Volume 1 David Deming, 2014-01-10

Science is a living organic activity the meaning and understanding of which have evolved incrementally over human history This book the first in a roughly chronological series explores the development of the methodology and major ideas of science in historical context from ancient times to the decline of classical civilizations around 300 A D It includes details specific to the histories of specialized sciences including astronomy medicine and physics along with Roman engineering and Greek philosophy It closely describes the contributions of such individuals as Pythagoras Hippocrates Socrates Plato Aristotle Alexander the Great Euclid Archimedes Ptolemy Seneca Pliny the Elder and Galen The Ecclesiastical History of England and Normandy: Book 12, chapter 21-Book 13. The chronicle of St. Evroult Ordericus Vitalis, 1856 Human Heritage

Making Sense of World History Rick Szostak, 2020-10-22 Making Sense of World History is a comprehensive and accessible textbook that helps students understand the key themes of world history within a chronological framework stretching from ancient times to the present day To lend coherence to its narrative the book employs a set of organizing devices that connect times places and or themes This narrative is supported by Flowcharts that show how phenomena within diverse broad themes interact in generating key processes and events in world history A discussion of the common challenges faced by different types of agent including rulers merchants farmers and parents and a comparison of how these challenges were addressed in different times and places An exhaustive and balanced treatment of themes such as culture politics and economy with an emphasis on interaction Explicit attention to skill acquisition in organizing information cultural sensitivity comparison visual literacy integration interrogating primary sources and critical thinking A focus on historical episodes that are carefully related to each other Through the use of such devices the book shows the cumulative effect of thematic interactions through time communicates the many ways in which societies have influenced each other through history and allows us to compare and contrast how they have reacted to similar challenges They also allow the reader to transcend historical controversies and can be used to stimulate class discussions and guide student assignments With a unified authorial voice and offering a narrative from the ancient to the present this is the go to textbook for World History courses and students The Open Access version of this book has been made available under a Creative Commons Attribution Non Commercial No Derivatives 4.0 license Tributary Empires in Global History Peter Fibiger Bang, C. A.

Bayly, 2016-04-30 A pioneering volume comparing the great historical empires such as the Roman, Mughal and Ottoman. Leading interdisciplinary thinkers study tributary empires from diverse perspectives illuminating the importance of these earlier forms of imperialism to broaden our perspective on modern concerns about empire and the legacy of colonialism.

On Justice Mathias Risse, 2020-09-10 Though much attention has been paid to different principles of justice far less has been done reflecting on what the larger concern behind the notion is. In this work Mathias Risse proposes that the perennial quest for justice is about ensuring that each individual has an appropriate place in what our uniquely human capacities permit us to build, produce and maintain and is appropriately respected for the capacity to hold such a place to begin with. Risse begins by investigating the role of political philosophers and exploring how to think about the global context where philosophical inquiry occurs. Next he offers a quasi historical narrative about how the notion of distributive justice identifies a genuinely human concern that arises independently of cultural context and has developed into the one we should adopt now. Finally he investigates the core terms of this view including stringency, moral value, ground and duties of justice. World
