EHealth Beyond the Horizon European Federation for Medical Informatics. International Congress, Stig Kjær Andersen, 2008 The first part of the MIE 2008 conference theme eHealth Beyond the Horizon highlights the expectations for the future of ehealth and raises the question What sort of developments in ehealth services can we imagine emerging above the horizon in the years to come EHealth Beyond the Horizon contains a good number of high quality papers giving different perspectives of this future some of them already available today in pilot scale some of them outlined in visions The second part of the theme Get IT There has triggered a large number of papers describing how to create evaluate adjust and deliver products and deploy services in healthcare organizations for the necessary information technology as a basis for the ehealth applications that are essential in order to respond to the challenges of the health systems The papers in the proceedings are grouped by themes according to the submission categories and the supplied keywords As the last theme three doctoral students from different areas of medical informatics were selected to present and discuss their research under the guidance of a panel of distinguished research faculties

Creating and Implementing Public Policy Gemma Carey, Kathy Landvogt, Jo Barraket, 2015-12-14 In order to address major social policy problems governments need to break down sectoral barriers and create better working relationships between practitioners policymakers and researchers Currently major blockages exist and stereotypes abound Academics are seen as out of touch and unresponsive policymakers are perceived to be justifying policy decisions and the community sector seeks more funding without demonstrating efficacy These stereotypes are born out of a lack of understanding of the work and practices that exist across these three sectors Drawing on ground breaking research and partnerships with contributions from senior public servants this book explores the competing demands of different actors involved in policy change It challenges current debates assumptions and reflects a unique diversity of experiences Combined with differing theoretical perspectives it provides a uniquely practical insight for those seeking to influence public policy This innovative text provides essential reading for community sector practitioners academics and advanced level students in public policy social policy and public administration as well as for public service professionals How To Do Primary Care Research Felicity Goodyear-Smith, Robert Mash, 2018-10-10 This practical How To guide talks the reader step by step through designing conducting and disseminating primary care research a growing discipline internationally The vast majority of health care issues are experienced by people in community settings who are not adequately represented by hospital based research There is therefore a great need to upskill family physicians and other primary care workers and academics to conduct community based research to inform best practice Aimed at emerging researchers including those in developing countries this book also addresses cutting edge and newly developing research methods which will be of equal interest to more experienced researchers Encyclopedia of Public Health Wilhelm Kirch, 2008-06-13 The Encyclopedic Reference of Public Health presents the most important definitions principles and general perspectives of public health written by experts of the different fields The work includes more than 2 500 alphabetical entries Entries comprise review style articles detailed essays and short definitions Numerous figures and tables enhance understanding of this little understood topic Solidly structured and inclusive this two volume reference is an invaluable tool for clinical scientists and practitioners in academia health care and industry as well as students teachers and interested laypersons World Report on Knowledge for Better Health, 2004 Government and Research Maurice Kogan, Mary Henkel, Steve Hanney, 2006-08-05 There has been a flare up in interest in science policy and a key factor in this is the increased interest in analysing the role that research can play in informing policy making A pioneering venture in this field was Government and Research The Rothschild Experiment in a Government Department 1983 Heinemann No other work had penetrated the deepest recesses of government to observe at first hand the attempts of a major department to determine its research agenda through collaboration with leading scientists in a wide range of fields to observe how research was commissioned and then evaluated by scientific teams and how it began to enter the policy blood streams of the departments This revised and augmented version updates the original text for current policy concerns and takes account of changes in science policy studies whilst preserving its essential themes It contains a succinct account of where matters now stand as well as an extended analysis of the themes that continue to dominate research and science policy Health and Energy Platform of Action report 2020-2022: building connections for better health World Health Organization, 2024-01-29 Energy is linked to many of the sustainable development priorities including public health gender equality food security clean water education economic growth youth and women s empowerment and climate action The absence of clean and sustainable energy has a significant adverse impact on the health and livelihoods of the poorest populations Around 2 3 billion people mostly in low and middle income countries LMICs still mainly rely on inefficient and polluting fuels and stoves for daily cooking exposing them to health damaging emissions that result in millions of premature deaths each year Health and livelihood risks are greatest for women and children as they are often tasked with cooking and gathering fuel The traditional use of biomass for cooking also puts the environment and climate at risk by contributing to deforestation and greenhouse gas emissions Around 1 billion people worldwide mostly in poor and rural communities are estimated to be served by health care facilities without any electricity or reliable power supply and only one in two hospitals in sub Saharan Africa has a reliable electricity supply Without adequate and reliable power essential medical devices cannot function basic amenities remain out of reach and delivery of health care services is of substandard quality Unless rapid action is taken the world will not meet its targets under the 2030 Agenda for Sustainable Development and the Paris Agreement In November 2018 during the first World Health Organization WHO Global Conference on Air Pollution and Health Dr Tedros Adhanom Ghebreyesus Director General of WHO announced his vision to build a Health and Energy Platform of Action HEPA to enhance multisectoral collaboration between the health and energy sectors and mobilize the political and financial commitments needed to achieve Sustainable Development Goals SDGs 3 and 7 In response WHO the United Nations Department of Economic and Social Affairs UN DESA the United Nations Development Programme UNDP and the World Bank in cooperation with the International Renewable Energy Agency IRENA and other key stakeholders launched HEPA in May 2019 with an initial focus on improving health through promoting clean fuels and technologies for cooking and accelerating access to electricity for health care facilities Following this announcement in July 2020 HEPA members worked together to develop a strategic workplan with five overarching objectives to strengthen the cooperation between the health and energy sectors and elevate energy access as a key development priority area for public health gender equity climate and sustainable development more broadly see Box 1 HEPA has gained significant momentum since its establishment in 2019 By October 2022 the platform had over 20 member organizations All members are committed to working together and synergizing efforts on the ground to accelerate universal electrification of health care facilities and clean cooking This HEPA action report summarizes the key activities and results achieved and highlights activities under each of HEPA s five objectives
