Seduction Rachel O'Neill, 2018-06-28 Within the so called seduction community the ability to meet and attract women is understood as a skill which heterosexual men can cultivate through practical training and personal development Though it has been an object of media speculation and frequent sensationalism for over a decade this cultural formation remains poorly understood In the first book length study of the industry Rachel O'Neill takes us into the world of seduction seminars training events instructional guidebooks and video tutorials Pushing past established understandings of pickup artists as pathetic pathological or perverse she examines what makes seduction so compelling for those drawn to participate in this sphere Seduction vividly portrays how the twin rationalities of neoliberalism and postfeminism are reorganising contemporary intimate life as labour intensive and profit orientated modes of sociality consume other forms of being and relating It is essential reading for students and scholars of gender sexuality sociology and cultural studies as well as anyone who wants to understand the seduction industry's overarching logics and internal workings

Attraction Explained Viren Swami, 2015-12-22 How much does appearance matter in the formation of romantic relationships? Do nice guys always finish last? Does playing hard to get ever work? What really makes for a good chat up line? When it comes to relationships, there's no shortage of advice from self-help experts, pickup artists, and glossy magazines. But modern-day myths of attraction often have no basis in fact or worse are rooted in little more than misogyny. In Attraction Explained, psychologist Viren Swami debunks these myths and draws on cutting-edge research to provide a ground-breaking and evidence-based account of relationship formation. At the core of this book is a very simple idea: there are no laws of attraction, no foolproof methods or strategies for getting someone to date you. But this isn't to say that there's nothing to be gained from studying attraction. Based on science rather than self-help clichés, Attraction Explained looks at how factors such as geography, appearance, personality, and similarity affect who we fall for and why. The Game of Seduction: how to Influence Wesley Felt, This book contains two titles Here are some snippets of what you can find in there Book 1 In today's world our perception fundamentally shapes our reality This explains why two people can have entirely different interpretations of the same event The meaning we assign to events stems from our beliefs and emotions So can altering our perception actually change our world If so how can this be achieved And if it's possible how can we mold our reality to create a better one What we see defines what we believe and what we believe dictates what we consider true Our sense of truth then becomes our reality Thus our perception molds our reality Although we share the same world we each focus on our own perceived truths Even though everyone has eyes each person views the world in a unique way It's easy to find what we're looking for but harder to notice what we're not searching for For example one person might see a glass as half full while another sees it as half empty Book 2 Gender does influence persuasion largely due to the emotional and intellectual differences between men and women It is often believed that the direct straightforward approach typically associated with men is more effective in persuasion than the emotionally nuanced methods often attributed to women One of the key differences between men and women is that men are primarily visually stimulated This trait while sometimes criticized as shallow is rooted in our DNA and evolution Historically men were driven to seek healthy partners for reproduction as visual cues were the primary way to assess health before the advent of modern medicine In the days of early human society a woman of child bearing age who appeared healthy was naturally attractive to men as it signaled good prospects for offspring The Most Human Human Brian Christian,2012-03-06 A playful profound book that is not only a testament to one man s efforts to be deemed more human than a computer but also a rollicking exploration of what it means to be human in the first place Terrific Art and science meet an engaged mind and the friction produces real fire The New Yorker Each year the AI community convenes to administer the famous and famously controversial Turing test pitting sophisticated software programs against humans to determine if a computer can think The machine that most often fools the judges wins the Most Human Computer Award But there is also a prize strange and intriguing for the Most Human Human Brian Christian a young poet with degrees in computer science and philosophy was chosen to participate in a recent competition This Love Online Jean-Claude Kaufmann,2012-03-05 A study of the relationship between the internet and relationships that investigates whether we can ever really combine sex and feelings instant gratification and enduring commitment using the example of one night stands arranged via online dating sites The Routledge Companion to Masculinity in American Literature and Culture Lydia R.
