Advances in Urban Stormwater and Agricultural Runoff Source Controls J. Marsalek, W. Ed Watt, Evzen Zeman, Heiko Sieker, 2012-12-06 Notwithstanding past achievements flood damage continues to rise throughout the world as the magnitudes of floods increase partly as a result of poor land management and partly by climate change growing populations and continuing development in flood prone areas and the aging and deterioration of flood defences One of the major goals of water management is the protection of society from floods That issue is addressed here in terms of such broad issues as flood analysis flood impact non structural and structural flood management measures Non structural measures focus on flood plain management flood insurance flood forecasting and warning and emergency measures during floods Structural measures focus on catchment management embankments and flood reservoirs Post flood measures are also discussed Future planning of flood management should be based on a clear understanding of the effectiveness interventions and their impacts on river catchment ecosystems

Urban Water II S. Mambretti, C. A. Brebbia, 2014-05-27 Urban Water II is the proceedings of the 2nd International Conference on the Design Construction Maintenance Monitoring and Control of Urban Water Systems The meeting was reconvened following the success of the first conference held in the

New Forest home to the Wessex Institute of Technology in 2012 Water systems in the urban environment consist of supply networks as well as sewage and storm drainage systems They interact with each other and with warm bodies such as rivers lakes and aquifers and this interaction affects the quality and quantity of the different systems As our cities continue to expand their urban infrastructure must be re evaluated and adapted to new requirements related to the increase in population and the growing areas under urbanisation New water systems are also required to reduce the risk associated with floods network failures and many others related to inadequate networks New systems should reduce economic losses and environmental impacts as well as promote a higher degree of reliability Improved management measurement and control mechanisms are needed to ensure the efficiency and safety of urban water systems Topics such as contamination and pollution discharges in urban water bodies as well as the monitoring of water recycling systems are currently receiving a great deal of attention from researchers and professional engineers working in the water industry Architects and town planners are also aware of the importance of the interaction between urban water cycles and city planning and landscaping Management of all these aspects requires the development of specialised computer tools that can respond to the increased complexity of urban water systems Relating to the subject areas of Water supply networks and Urban Drainage topics covered include Leakage and losses Modelling and experimentation Safety and security of water systems Maintenance and repairs Water quality Water savings and reuse Surface water and groundwater sources Reservoirs Network design Waste water treatment and disposal Structural works and infrastructure Water quality issues Combined sewer networks Flood control Storage tanks Environmental impact Domestic and industrial waste water issues and Social Justice Zoran Vojinovic, Michael B. Abbott, 2012-03-05 Flood Risk and Social Justice is a response to the rising significance of floods and flood related disasters worldwide as an initiative to promote a socially just approach to the problems of flood risk. It integrates the human social and the technological components to provide a holistic view. This book treats flooding as a multi dimensional human and natural world tragedy that must be accommodated using all the social and technological means that can be mobilised before during and after the flooding event. It covers socially just flood risk mitigation practices which necessitate a wide range of multidisciplinary approaches starting from social and wider environmental needs including feedback cycles between human needs and technological means. Flood Risk and Social Justice looks at how to judge whether a risk is acceptable or not by addressing an understanding of social and phenomenological considerations rather than simple calculations of probabilities multiplied by unwanted outcomes and their balancing between costs and benefits. It is argued that the present flood management practice should be largely replaced by the social justice approach where particular attention is given to deciding what is the right thing to do within a much wider context. Thus it insists upon the validity of modes of human understanding which cannot be addressed within the limited context of modern science. Flood Risk and Social Justice is written to support a wide range of audiences and seeks to improve the dialogue between researchers and practitioners from different disciplines including post graduate engineering environmental and social science students industry practitioners academics planners environmental advocacy groups and environmental law professionals who have a strong interest in a new kind of social justice work that can act as a continuous counter balance to the various mechanisms that unceasingly give rise to profound injustices. More information about this book can be found in this article written for the WaterWiki by the author <http://www.iwaterwiki.org/xwiki/bin/view/Articles/FloodRiskandSocialJustice>

Flood Risk

At head of title National Cooperative Highway Research Program. Toxicity of Aquatic System and Remediation Susmita Mukherjee, Sanket J. Joshi, Sonali Paul, Rita Kundu, 2024-03-29 The eco friendly remediation technologies for the degraded environment are indeed the need of the hour. Even though the regulatory mechanisms are in place to control the discharge of untreated contaminants into the natural environment still we could see a different picture hence remediation and restoration of the environment becomes an ardent requisite. The present day fast pace of industrialization without proper disposal planning is impacting the water bodies.

adversely generating the need for green management technologies. It is worth mentioning that these environment friendly technologies are most cost effective as well. The advancements in biotechnology have paved the way to mitigate the problem. The primary audience of this book are the students and researchers who are working in the field of toxicology and bioremediation of aquatic environments. We have primarily focused in this book on bioremediation of aquatic system toxicity considering this as an environment friendly system and having the least adverse effects. Hence this book aims to bring forward together on a single platform the latest research in aquatic resource management which includes the discussions and discourses on the degradation and the effect and the remediation. This book includes a discussion on the different sources of contamination from industries or by the usage of commercial pesticides or even fertilizers. These contaminants if discharged in their toxic form as effluent cause harm to the aquatic systems and the subsoil and create the possibility of groundwater contamination. This book includes a discussion on the different routes of contamination and the food chain transport possibilities of pesticide pollutants which are very contemporary and required topics of research. It also includes relevant discussions on how to get rid of the toxicity.
