Radiotelegraph & Radiotelephone Codes, Prowords and Abbreviations John W Alcorn VK2JWA, 2013-10-26 What started out as a minor Project in 1987 blew out like the national debt so with all this accumulated info it seemed worthwhile to produce the first book here now is the Latest Online Edition The sources and references have been many and varied and although the utmost care was taken the Lists are far from complete and may contain errors The original Codes etc were designed principally for marine use as this was the field in which radio was initially developed The majority retain this influence but many have been modified and modernized to cover land and air applications Technical terms have also varied as technology has changed however most abbreviations of the computer age have been omitted These are specialist terms of that mode not often encountered in telegraphy U.S. Navy Codebreakers, Linguists, and Intelligence Officers against Japan, 1910-1941 Steven E. Maffeo, 2015-12-16 This unique reference presents 59 biographies of people who were key to the sea services being reasonably prepared to fight the Japanese Empire when the Second World War broke out and whose advanced work proved crucial. These intelligence pioneers invented techniques, procedures, and equipment from scratch, not only allowing the United States to hold its own in the Pacific despite the loss of most of its Fleet at Pearl Harbor but also laying the foundation of today's intelligence methods and agencies. One hundred years ago, in what was clearly an unsophisticated pre-information era, naval intelligence and foreign intelligence in general existed in rudimentary forms almost incomprehensible to us today. Founded in 1882, the U.S. Office of Naval Intelligence (ONI), the modern world's oldest continuously operating intelligence agency, functioned for at least its first forty years with low manning, small budgets, low priority, and no prestige. The navy's early steps into communications intelligence (COMINT), which included activities such as radio interception, radio traffic analysis, and cryptology, came with the 1916 establishment of the Code and Signals Section within the navy's Division of Communications and with the 1924 creation of the Research Desk as part of the Section. Like ONI, this COMINT organization suffered from low budgets, manning, priority, and prestige. The dictionary focuses on these pioneers, many of whom went on even after World War II to important positions in the Navy, the State Department, the Armed Forces Security Agency, the National Security Agency, and the Central Intelligence Agency. It reveals the work and innovations of well and lesser known individuals who created the foundations of today's intelligence apparatus and analysis.
