Unit 8: American History
1800-1900

USA Studies Weekly

A New Government for the People

Governing the People

GRADE 5

The American people were tired of the old government. They wanted a new government that would be for the people and by the people. In 1787, the delegates to the Constitutional Convention met in Philadelphia to write a new constitution. They agreed on a new government that would be for the people and by the people. This was the beginning of the American Republic.

Over time, the United States has changed. The people have grown and the country has grown. The government has changed to meet the needs of the people. The American people have always been a people who have fought for freedom and justice. They have always been a people who have believed in the right to life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness.

Americans were afraid of government. They were afraid of the power of the government. They were afraid of the people. They were afraid of the future. They were afraid of the past. They were afraid of the present. They were afraid of the unknown. They were afraid of the world. They were afraid of the sky. They were afraid of the earth. They were afraid of the sea. They were afraid of the land. They were afraid of the air. They were afraid of the fire. They were afraid of the water. They were afraid of the sun. They were afraid of the moon. They were afraid of the stars. They were afraid of the planets. They were afraid of the galaxies. They were afraid of the universe. They were afraid of everything.
