Understanding Experiences of First Generation University Students Amani Bell, Lorri J. Santamaría, 2018-02-22 Over the past few decades universities have opened their doors to students whose parents and grandparents were historically excluded from societal participation and higher education for reasons associated with racial ethnic socio economic and or linguistic diversity Many of these students are first generation or first in their family to attend university While some progress has been made in responding to the needs of these internationally underserved learners many challenges remain This edited book features the unique and diverse experiences of first generation students as they transition into and engage with higher education whilst exploring ways in which universities might better serve these students With reference to culturally responsive and sustaining research methodologies undertaken in Australia Canada New Zealand South Africa the UK and the USA the contributors critically examine how these students demonstrate resilience within university and ways in which success and challenges are articulated Elements that are unique to context and shared across the international higher education milieu are explored The book is replete with diverse student voices and compelling implications for practice and future research The studies featured are centred on underlying theories of identity and intersectionality while valuing student voices and experiences Throughout the emphasis is on using strengths based indigenous and decolonised methodologies Through these culturally sustaining approaches which include critical incident technique participatory learning and action talanoa and narrative inquiry the book explores rich data on first generation student experiences at seven institutions in six countries across four continents

Corrupted Jonathan D Jansen, 2023-02-01 In South African higher education the images of dysfunction are everywhere Student protests Violence Police presence Rubber or real bullets Class disruptions Burning tyres Damaged buildings Injury and sometimes death Reports of wholesale corruption Year after year often in the same set of universities the problem of routine instability seems insoluble The financial academic and reputational costs of ongoing dysfunction are high especially for those universities caught up in the never ending struggle to overcome apartheid legacies Any number of explanations have been ventured including a lack of resources shortage of capacity rural location corrupt officials and endemic conflict Corrupted takes a deeper look at dysfunction in an attempt to unravel the root causes in a sample of South African universities At the heart of the problem lies the vexed issue of resources or more pertinently the relationship between resources and power who gets what and why Whatever else it aspires to be commonly a place of teaching learning research and public duty a university in an impoverished community is also a rich concentration of resources around which corrupt staff students and those outside of campus all vie for access Taking a political economic approach Jonathan Jansen describes the daily struggle for institutional resources and offers accessible sensible insights He argues that the problem won't be solved through investments in capacity building alone because the combination of institutional capacity and institutional integrity contributes to serial instability in universities Rather durable solutions would include the depoliticisation of university councils and appointments of academics with integrity and capacity to manage and lead these fragile institutions This groundbreaking and long overdue study will offer a promising way forward for universities to better serve their communities and the country more broadly

Feeling lives: An intersectional exploration of past experiences and present living

Lindsay Clowes, LJ Theo, Nadia Sanger, Landa Mabenge, Sisa Ngabaza, 2023-11-15 We each make sense of the world through our embodied feeling lives We do it through the social groupings contexts and processes which history rather than biology presents and assigns to us In this collection we aim to illustrate how these embodied feelings and emotions underpin contemporary theorising by sharing reflective autobiographical writing by individuals from a wide range of backgrounds and contexts This somewhat unruly collection unsettles conventional academic writing precisely because authors have grounded themselves in the tangible and the personal rather than in abstract theory We hope that readers might see aspects of their own lives in some of these stories develop better understandings of lives that are experienced very differently and start or continue to theorise their own lives Financial Mail, 2006-06 Juta's Statutes of South Africa South Africa, 2004

Handbook of Research on Social, Cultural, and Educational Considerations of Indigenous Knowledge in Developing Countries Ngulube, Patrick, 2016-09-29 Knowledge systems are an essential aspect to the preservation of a community's culture In developing countries this community based knowledge has significant influence on such things as decision making and problem solving The Handbook of Research on Social Cultural and Educational Considerations of Indigenous Knowledge in Developing Countries is an authoritative reference source for the latest scholarly research on the importance of knowledge and value systems at the community level and ways indigenous people utilize this information Highlighting impacts on culture and education in developing nations this book is ideally designed for researchers academicians policy makers students and professionals interested in contemporary debates on indigenous knowledge systems Contemporary India and South Africa Sujata Patel, Tina Uys, 2013-11-12 This book deals with the legacies of the Indian experiences of migration and diaspora in South Africa It highlights the social imaginaries of the migrants and citizens as they negotiate between a reconstructed notion of India and their real present and future in the country of citizenship Both South Africa and India have had a long history of group based identity movements against exploitation around caste and race intersecting with class gender language religion and region The combined history has allowed them to participate in novel ways in the global arena

as regional powers The book suggests that the question of identity concerns itself with exploitation and oppression of excluded groups in both countries The authors are particularly attentive to the manner in which the two democratic states have confronted the challenges of history together with contemporary demands of inclusion and discuss the dilemmas involved in resolving them The volume also raises questions regarding future roles especially in the fields of education and the environment It will be of interest to those in the fields of sociology political science international relations history migration and diaspora studies as well as to the general reader A Better Future Jacqueline Bhabha, Wenona Giles, Faraaz Mahomed, 2020-09-17 Policy makers advocates and scholars have long concentrated on the importance of equal access to primary and secondary education as a foundation for a democratic and just society Despite the growing importance of higher and specialist education in an increasingly technological and skill focused global market tertiary education has attracted much less attention And yet universities and colleges are epicentres of egregious disparities in access which impinge on traditionally marginalized communities such as racial minorities migrants indigenous populations and people with disabilities By drawing attention to this issue and assembling first rate material from scholars and policy makers across the globe this book performs an invaluable service for those interested in understanding and fighting a highly significant violation of educational opportunity and social justice
