FINANCIAL STATEMENT AUDITS AND AUDITORS' RESPONSIBILITIES

- 2.1 The ultimate objective of accounting is the communication of relevant and reliable financial data that will be useful for decision making. Accounting methods involve identifying the events and transactions that affect the entity. Once identified, these items are measured, recorded, classified, and summarized in the accounting records and reported in accordance with generally accepted accounting principles (GAAP). The accounting process is carried out by an entity's employees, and ultimate responsibility for the financial statements lies with the entity's management.
- The primary objective of an audit is to add credibility to management's financial statements. The typical audit performed in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards (GAAS) involves obtaining and evaluating evidence concerning management's financial statements. Auditing culminates in the issuance of an audit report that contains the auditor's opinion on whether the financial statements do in fact present fairly the entity's financial position, results of operations, and cash flows in conformity with GAAP. The auditor is responsible for forming and expressing an opinion on the entity's financial statements.
- 2.2 Verifiability is primarily concerned with the availability of evidence. In an audit the auditor needs to obtain evidence to support conclusions about the fair presentation of financial position, results of operations, and cash flows. However, financial statements contain elements, such as an allowance for doubtful accounts, which may not be precise. In verifying the financial statements the auditor:
- a. Only looks for misstatements that may be material, or significant, to financial statement users.
  - b. Cannot perform a 100 % audit. The auditor cannot verify everything. Hence the audit is subject to the uncertainty associated with sampling.
  - c. The audit cannot add precision to estimates that are inherently imprecise.
- 2.3 (1) The independent auditor must have a relationship with management that is based on mutual respect and a high degree of candor. Management is responsible for maintaining an audit trail that supports the financial statements. If management attempts to conceal evidence, it increases the probability that the auditor may not find material misstatements. Nevertheless the auditor
