Workshop on Higher-Order Spectral Analysis, 1989 Innovations in Teaching Statistics Joan B. Garfield, 2005 This is a book of stories about teaching statistics These stories are told by fourteen different instructors of innovative statistics courses who demonstrate that learning statistics can be a positive meaningful and even exciting experience Despite the prevailing opinion that statistics courses are dull and difficult for students these stories paint quite a different picture In the classes of the instructors whose stories fill this book students are engaged in learning are empowered to do statistics and appreciate the instructional methods of their teachers The instructors profiled in this book are inspiring dedicated teachers who have devoted considerable effort to creating courses and materials that enable students to successfully learn statistics Each chapter begins by describing how the author became a teacher of statistics then provides details about the courses they currently teach describing their teaching method textbook types of student assessments and uses of technology One typical class is described in detail to provide a snapshot of what each person's teaching looks like The writers then tell the story of the process they went through in developing an innovative course and conclude their chapters with a discussion of their future plans for course revision or development As you read these stories you will learn about some great activities some helpful technological tools and some innovative assessment methods By reading these stories teachers of statistics will understand and be motivated to try different ways to implement reform recommendations so that these recommendations may continue to lead to a variety of new materials activities and teaching approaches I hope that teachers of statistics may be inspired by these stories and feel encouraged to try new methods leave behind more traditional approaches to teaching statistics and carefully examine the effect of their teaching on student learning Publisher Morphisms for Quantitative Spatial Analysis Daniel A. Griffith, Jean H. P. Paelinck, 2018-03-07 This book treats the notion of morphisms in spatial analysis paralleling these concepts in spatial statistics Part I and spatial econometrics Part II The principal concept is morphism e.g. isomorphisms homomorphisms and allomorphisms which is defined as a structure preserving the functional linkage between mathematical properties or operations in spatial statistics and spatial econometrics among other disciplines The purpose of this book is to present selected conceptions in both domains that are structurally the same even though their labelling and the notation for their elements may differ As the approaches presented here are applied to empirical materials in geography and economics the book will also be of interest to scholars of regional science quantitative geography and the geospatial sciences It is a follow up to the book Non standard Spatial Statistics and Spatial Econometrics by the same authors which was published by Springer in 2011 Resources in Education, 1999-10 Graduate Announcement University of Michigan--Dearborn, 1986 Advances in Digital Technologies Yao-Liang Chung, Pit Pichappan, 2016-04-15 The use of digital information and web technologies is now essential to all our lives on a daily basis In particular web technologies that enable easy access to digital information in all its forms and regardless of the user's purpose are extremely important This book
