Miller, 2000-08-17 Did people from the early high cultures of Asia cross the Pacific Ocean thousands of years ago and leave their mark on societies in the ancient Americas This was a hypothesis once seriously entertained by archaeologists and art historians but it fell into academic disfavor in the 1960s In this book Carol Miller an independent scholar writer journalist and sculptress who has lived nearly half a century in Mexico City draws our attention once again to the plausibility indeed the near certainty of early trans Pacific contacts As she presents a startling panorama of parallels among the art architecture theology and astronomy of the Mayas as viewed in relation to other peoples of the Americas as well as those of Asia she demonstrates the likelihood that exchanges took place between them not occasionally but regularly and continually From southern China northern Vietnam Southeast Asia and India seasoned navigators challenged the Pacific reached the west coast of South America and from there north into Central America and what is now Mexico right into the sculpture painting and even the social organization of the people called Mayas Miller draws on the work of the late Austrian anthropologist Robert Heine Geldern and his American colleague Gordon F Ekholm as well as the renowned Norwegian archaeologist explorer Thor Heyerdahl among other scholars of diffusion thus she claims the spread of ideas customs and styles in art and design language calendar even political hierarchies from one end of the globe to the other She reminds us that the notion of early contacts between Asia and the Americas is not new but that it is time to dust it off and take a fresh look at the evidence Her reminder is especially timely in light of recent finds that demand a fresh look at everything we have ever before been taught about human evolution patterns of migration cultural and social development An Inventory of the Ancient

Monuments in Glamorgan: Volume III - Part 1b: Medieval Secular Monuments the Later Castles from 1217 to the present Royal Commission on the Ancient and Historical Monuments in Wales, 2000 Forty three castles and fortified sites here described were founded or given their most significant fabric after 1217 They include tower houses strong houses possible castles and twenty masonry castles ranging from the great Clare works at Caerphilly and Morlais to the small modestly fortified sites at Barry and Weobley and the exceptional fortified priory at Ewenny The density and variety of the medieval fortifications in Glamorgan are unrivalled and their study is enriched by an exceptional range of works on the history and records of a historic county formed by merging the lordships of Glamorgan and Gower Part 1a described the early castles and traced their role in the Norman conquest and settlement of the fertile southern lowlands down to 1217 when the

Clare inherited Glamorgan In that year the Welsh had expelled the English from Gower and remained unconquered in the Glamorgan uplands Gower was soon lost again and under two redoubtable Clare lords the Glamorgan uplands were appropriated in the mid 13th century and secured in a notable programme of castle works The castle building of Earl Richard de Clare 1243 62 and his son Gilbert the Red Earl 1263 95 as they achieved this second conquest of Glamorgan foreshadowed the later campaigns of Edward I against Gwynedd At Caerphilly above all Earl Gilbert's castle deserves comparison with the great Edwardian works it introduced defensive features later to be adopted by King Edward's Savoyard master masons Gower sites considered include the impressive masonry castles at Oystermouth and Penrice A notable ornately arcaded domestic range at Swansea is the only surviving vestige of the chief castle of Gower which is tentatively described from a variety of records AH the illustrated descriptions incorporate detailed historical accounts The introductory survey outlines the later descent of Glamorgan and Gower to the end of the 15th century and along with the sectional preambles it provides general discussion of the sites
