The Nervous System

The nervous system is an extremely complex, highly intricate, and very sensitive structure that regulates everything that happens throughout the human body. The main purpose of all the nervous system and its various parts is to carry and send information, and give the body the signals it needs. The nervous system is basically made of two systems: the central nervous system (CNS) and the peripheral nervous system (PNS).

Central Nervous System

The central nervous system, or CNS, is the part of the nervous system that is located in the brain and spinal cord. It is the most complex part of the nervous system. The brain is the control center of the body, and is located within the protective head shell. Layers of meningeal membranes and cerebrospinal fluid also protect the CNS. The spinal cord consists of a long, thin, tube-like structure that runs through the vertebral column. It has an S-shaped curve to the spinal cord, and a part of the spinal cord, called the cauda equina, extends from the lower back into the body.

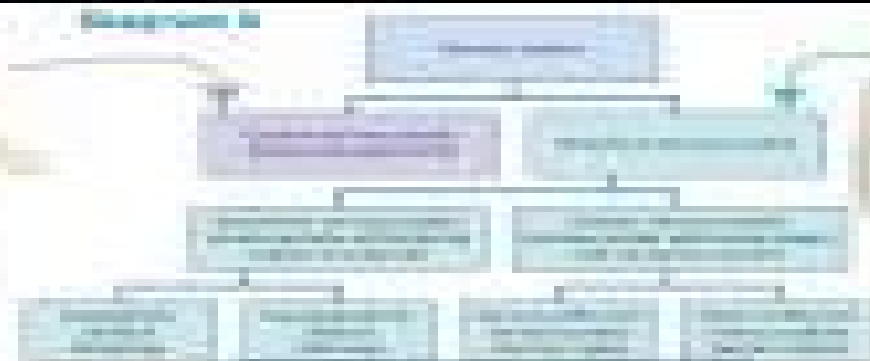

Peripheral Nervous System

There are all parts of the nervous system that are not the CNS, and they make up the peripheral nervous system (PNS). The PNS is made up of all sensory neurons that are capable of receiving stimuli, and neurons that are capable of responding to stimuli. For example, sensory neurons in the eye and ear are capable of receiving light and sound signals, and sending them to the brain for processing.

The PNS is divided into the somatic and autonomic nervous systems. The somatic nervous system is responsible for the voluntary control of the body's movements. It consists of the brain, spinal cord, and all the sensory and motor neurons that are involved in the control of the body's movements. The autonomic nervous system is responsible for the involuntary control of the body's functions. It consists of the brain, spinal cord, and all the sensory and motor neurons that are involved in the control of the body's functions. The autonomic nervous system is divided into the sympathetic and parasympathetic systems. The sympathetic system is responsible for the fight or flight response, and the parasympathetic system is responsible for the rest and digest response.

The Brain

The brain is the most complex part of the nervous system. It is located in the head, and is the control center of the body. It is made up of billions of neurons that are capable of receiving and sending signals. The brain is divided into three main parts: the cerebrum, the cerebellum, and the brainstem. The cerebrum is the largest part of the brain, and is responsible for the majority of the body's functions. The cerebellum is located at the back of the brain, and is responsible for coordination and balance. The brainstem is located at the base of the brain, and is responsible for the body's basic functions, such as breathing and heart rate.
