Culture, philosophies and reforms in public administration for the globalizing world Edwin O.C. Ijeoma, Ogochukwu I. Nzewi, 2018-12-31 The aim of this scholarly collected work is to contribute to the scientific discourse on public administration in a globalised environment The book reflects on governance challenges in South Africa and in Africa with its point of departure being the master narratives the so called grand debates such as New Public Management and specifically the role of technology It also reflects on the so called middle range

discourses concerning organisational level issues in government e.g leadership and work procedures and explores new solutions to old governance challenges like corruption and service delivery The uniqueness of this collected work lies in its ability to reflect on existing philosophies and practices in an innovative way Through its multidisciplinary lens the book opens up a new vision for the future of public administration in the South African context and on the African continent not neglecting the current local regional and global environment Until recently globalisation was considered an entrenched world order but international political events during the course of the past few years have resulted in one of the biggest challenges to its endurance in recent history This includes developments such as the successful referendum in Britain to exit the European Union highlighting the growth of a severe nationalist and protectionist agenda that may be a signal of the unravelling of the current globalism world order These developments inspire deeper interrogation of the challenges to effective public administration globally and the ripple effects in South Africa and Africa as a whole Pointedly it is evident that ensuring the voice of citizens in policy decision making remains a critical governance challenge On the policy front there are perennial challenges of land reform service delivery and poverty while on the governance front corruption has metastasised with a growing culture of impunity and lack of accountability in leadership In the midst of growing corruption and more than 20 years into democracy South Africa's income inequality remains one of the highest in the world This setting constitutes the context of the research outcome published in this scholarly work

Food Production System Resilience for Food Security Facing a Changing Environment Liming Ye, Ping Zhu, 2023-11-28. As the dominant source of the human food supply, the global land system underlies the foundation of the livelihood and wellbeing of humanity on Earth. On the one hand, the growth rate in the land system's productive capacity of food has played a key role in global food provision. Technological breakthroughs in wheat and rice production during the past few decades, for instance, have greatly contributed to the maintenance of this growth rate in many parts of the world. On the other hand, however, the terrestrial food production system is facing increasing challenges from environmental stressors ranging from climate change, air pollution to land degradation. Whether and how the global land system will support the food security of more than 10 billion people in the 21st century while minimizing its environmental footprint remains an open question to debate. It is inevitable that the global food production system has to be shifted from focusing on production expansion to land system resilience so that the dual goals of sustainable production and environmental friendliness can be simultaneously achieved. Advanced Nanostructured Materials for Environmental Remediation Mu. Livelihood and Landscape Change in Africa: Future Trajectories for Improved Well-Being under a Changing Climate

Sheona Shackleton, Paul Hebinck, Chinwe Ifejika Speranza, Vanessa Masterson, Dian Spear, Maria Tengö, 2019-10-08 This book is based on a Special Issue of the journal LAND that draws together a collection of 11 diverse articles at the nexus of climate change landscapes and livelihoods in rural Africa all explore the links between livelihood and landscape change including shifts in farming practices and natural resource use and management The articles which are all place based case studies across nine African countries cover three not necessarily mutually exclusive thematic areas namely smallholder farming livelihoods under new climate risk five articles long term dynamics of livelihoods and landscape change and future trajectories two articles and natural resource management and governance under a changing climate spanning forests woodlands and rangelands four articles The commonalities key messages and research gaps across the 11 articles are presented in a synthesis article All the case studies pointed to the need for an integrated and in depth understanding of the multiple drivers of landscape and livelihood change and how these interact with local histories knowledge systems cultures complexities and lived realities Moreover where there are interventions such as new governance systems REDD or climate smart agriculture it is critical to interrogate what is required to ensure a fair and equitable distribution of emerging benefits
