

A close-up portrait of a woman with blonde hair styled in a short, wavy bob. She is wearing an ornate white lace masquerade mask with gold accents and a single white feather. Her right hand is raised, holding the mask near her eye. She has a soft smile and is looking directly at the camera. The background is a plain, light color.

Milton's Arcades and Comus Arthur Wilson Verity,1891 Hogarth and his Place in European Art Frederick Antal,2022-11-30 First published in 1962 Hogarth and his Place in European Art attempts to convey the historical relevance both in its native and European context of perhaps the most outstanding English painter of the eighteenth century Dr Antal applies his method of establishing the close relationship between the political and social history and the arts and letters of the period Thus the book goes far beyond the limits of art historical appreciation It gives a panoramic picture of the first half of the eighteenth century in England with all its social literary and artistic connotations He shows how England which during those years became both politically and economically the most advanced country in Europe could provide in Hogarth in spite of the slender native tradition the most progressive artistic personality of his time whose work revealed the views and tastes of a broad cross section of society He traces Hogarth s stylistic origins back to their European sources and analyses his impact on contemporary European and English art as well as the influence he exerted on generations to come This book will be of interest to students of art art history literature and European history
