Figure 1 illustrates four types of interlocking:

- (a) interlocking by shape: Two blocks with complementary shapes (one with a protrusion, the other with a recess) that prevent movement.
- (b) interlocking by size: Two blocks of different sizes where the larger block's dimensions prevent the smaller block from being moved.
- (c) interlocking by position: Two blocks where the position of one block relative to the other prevents movement.
- (d) interlocking by color: Two blocks of different colors where the color difference indicates a restriction on movement.
