*The amount of the grant for the research programme depends on the category of the research project (see the table below).

There is a significant negative impact of the number of employees on the dependent variable. This suggests that as the number of employees increases, the dependent variable tends to decrease. This could be due to a variety of factors, such as increased complexity, communication challenges, or resource constraints.

Table III.2. Current diagnosis provided for each British subject (see the Introduction). Each entry of the record is referred to by the type of the category of diagnosis considered in that entry (there is at least one for each case) and the case with the diagnosis considered will be called Case of that category. Of four, three and two categories, respectively, will be called Cases of first, second, third, and fourth categories, respectively.
