The following is an excerpt from the full University of Oxford Style Guide www.ox.ac.uk/styleguide. Although it is made freely available online, it is intended as an in-house guide to enable staff of Oxford University to be consistent, and does not purport to compete with OUP's professional style and writing guides.

General rule

- if there is more than one correct way of writing something, choose whichever uses least space and least ink

Abbreviations

- close up spaces between letters and don't use full stops in abbreviations, contractions or acronyms, but do use spaces between people's initials:

✔ Dr P A Smith has an MMathPhil and a DPhil in maths

Capitalisation

- only use capital letters where absolutely required
- capitalise 'college', 'department' etc. when used as part of their official name:
✔ Brasenose College; Department of Engineering Science; Medical Sciences Division; Faculty of Law
- use lower case for 'college', 'department' etc. when used descriptively without the full name:
✔ the college; the department; the division; the faculty
- capitalise 'University' whenever referring to Oxford University:
✔ the University is 800 years old; the collegiate University is a large employer
- capitalise 'Professor' when followed by a name, but use lower case when used as a job title:
✔ Professor Smith is a professor in the Social Sciences Division

Dashes/hyphens

Hyphens: always closed up to words either side

- ✔ use to join prefixes which might cause confusion: pre-eminent; re-release
- ✔ use in adjectival phrases preceding a noun: a long-held belief; a first-class degree
- ✔ do not use in adjectival phrases following a noun: a belief which has been long held
- ✔ do not use in adjectival phrases which include an adverb ending in -ly: a highly paid job; a quickly flowing river

n-dashes

- with spaces either side, use:
✔ as a pair, in place of commas or parentheses to separate a phrase
✔ singly, in place of a colon to link a parts of a sentence which could each stand alone
- closed up to words or numbers either side, use:
✔ to link concepts or ranges of numbers/dates: 2014–15; German–Polish pact
✔ to link two names who are co-creators or after whom something is named: Lennon–McCartney; Varley–Gladwell prize

Dates/years

- format as day month year:
✔ 12 January 2016
✗ January 12, 2016
- give date ranges with a closed-up n-dash:
✔ 12–14 January (see also Times below)
- for academic/financial years, use either an n-dash or a slash but be consistent:

The Elements of Style William Strunk, E. B. White, 2018-09-06 The Elements of Style Strunk White is an American English writing style guide It is one of the most influential and best known prescriptive treatments of English grammar and usage in the United States This book aims to give in brief space the principal requirements of plain English style It aims to lighten the task of instructor and student by concentrating attention on a few essentials the rules of usage and principles of composition most commonly violated In accordance with this plan it lays down three rules for the use of the comma instead of a score or more and one for the use of the semicolon in the belief that these four rules provide for all the internal punctuation that is required by nineteen sentences out of twenty Similarly it gives in Chapter III only those principles of the paragraph and the sentence which are of the widest application The book thus covers only a small portion of the field of English style The experience of its writer has been that once past the essentials students profit most by individual instruction based on the problems of their own work and that each instructor has his own body of theory which he may prefer to that offered by any textbook
