Installation Art and the Museum Vivian Saaze, 2025-10-01 Installation art has become mainstream in artistic practices. However, acquiring and displaying such artworks implies that curators and conservators are challenged to deal with obsolete technologies, ephemeral materials, and other issues concerning care and management of these artworks. By analysing three in-depth case studies, the author sheds new light on the key concepts of traditional conservation: authenticity, artist's intention, and the notion of ownership, while exploring how these concepts apply in contemporary art conservation. Based on original empirical research and cross-case analysis, this ground-breaking study offers a re-examination of traditional conservation values and ethics and argues for a reassessment of the role of the conservator of contemporary art.

A training of trainers manual to develop capacities in gender sensitive rural advisory services Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations, World Health Organization, 2017-01-01 This manual provides guidance for organizing and facilitating training of trainers in gender sensitive rural advisory services design and delivery. It has been developed as part of the FAO project Capacity Development Support to Rural Women on the Socio-economic and Gender Aspects of Sustainable Rural Development, which was implemented in Turkey and Azerbaijan in 2014-16. The project was realized under the FAO Turkey Partnership Programme and financed by the Government of Turkey. The manual is based on the pilot trainings carried out in Turkey and Azerbaijan and is intended to help meet the needs for training guidelines specifically designed for strengthening the gender sensitivity of rural advisory services. The guidelines are developed to be applied not just to one country situation but for easy adaptation and use in strengthening advisory services globally. The manual content is organized into three main sections. Section 1 introduces the manual; section 2 provides detailed guidelines for all stages of a workshop design and preparation; and section 3 is a step-by-step programme for delivery of a four-day workshop. A final section of annexes includes sample training materials, sample slide presentations, and notes for use in workshop delivery, a glossary of gender-related terminology, and useful references and resource material on gender and agriculture.

Handbook for Teachers in Universities and Colleges David Newble, Robert Cannon, 2013-10-15 First Published in 2000 This is the fourth edition of a handbook that has already become well known to many academic staff. Its popularity rests on the way it presents ideas about teaching and learning underpinned by research findings but in a form that provides detailed helpful advice for teachers in higher education. The Handbook could be used to support any of the many training programmes being introduced into colleges and universities around the world, as indeed previous editions have already done. The various chapters focus on the specific skills that are dealt with in such programmes: large group and small group teaching methods, methods of assessment, and so on. They also include advice on how to present conference papers, an area where advice seems sorely lacking.
