The Political Dialogue of Nature and Grace Caitlin Smith Gilson,2017-03-23 The discourse between nature and grace finds its linguistic and existential podium in the political condition of human beings As Caitlin Smith Gilson shows it is in this arena that the perennial territorial struggle of faith and reason God and man man and state take place and it is here that the understanding of the personal as political as well as the political as personal finds its meaning And it is here too that the divine finds or is refused a home Any discussion of post secular society has its origins in this political dialogue between nature and grace the resolution of which might determine not only a future post secular society but one in which awe is re united to affection solidarity and fraternity Smith Gilson questions whether the idea of pure nature antecedently disregards the fact that grace enters existence and that this accomplishes a conversion in the metaphysical existential region of man's action and being This conversion alters how man acts as an affective moral intellectual social political and spiritual being State of nature theories transformed yet retained in the broader metaphysical and existential implications of the Hegelian Weltgeist are shown to be indebted to the ideological restrictedness of pure nature natura pura as providing the foremost adversary to any meaningful type of divine presence within the polis as well as inhibiting the phenomenological facticity of man as an open nature
