learning Chinese at an inner city secondary school in the North of England and adopting a case study research design this book aims to develop research informed insights into the nature of the pronunciation challenges facing beginner learners of Chinese While existing research has shown that producing native like tones is difficult for Anglophone learners the question of how important tones are for intelligibility has been largely ignored Do heavily accented tones actually matter Which specific areas of the learners speech signal mislead their listeners How aware are learners of their own pronunciation errors Teachers of Chinese may not be able to solve entrenched geopolitical tensions but we can lay the foundations for a stronger engagement with China through excellent teaching However before authoritative pedagogical interventions can be made far more understanding is required of not only how adolescent beginners learn Chinese in school settings but also what can be realistically expected of them

Native and Non-Native Teachers in English Language Classrooms Juan de Dios Martinez Agudo, 2017-05-08 Despite being highly debated in applied linguistics and L2 teaching literature the controversial issue of non nativeness still remains unresolved Contemporary critical research has questioned the theoretical foundations of the nativeness paradigm which still exerts a strong influence in the language teaching profession Written by well known researchers and teacher educators from all over the world both NSs and NNSs the selected contributions of this volume cover a great variety of aspects related to the professional role and status of both NS and NNS teachers in terms of both perceived differences and professional concerns and challenges The strongest aspects of this volume are the global perspectives and the implications for future research and teacher education It is precisely this international perspective which makes this volume illustrative of different realities with a similar objective in mind the improvement of second language teaching and teacher education In today s world being a NS or NNS should not really matter but rather teachers professional competences This publication thus provides a forum of reflection and discussion for all L2 educators who need to be aware of how much they might offer to their future students
