W. Wu, 2021-06-10

Due to the competitive edge it confers on students educational institutions and non English speaking nations in a globalized economy English as a medium of instruction EMI has been gaining popularity in tertiary education in non native English speaking NNEs countries Institute wide EMI implementation has often been imposed by top down decisions in combination with the optimistic view that the horse should always be placed before the cart However emerging evidence suggests that the delivery of such programs to NNEs students has led to new pedagogical challenges and learning problems that go beyond the scope of language learning and teaching and deserve immediate attention For example how would an instructor respond to situations in which students learning of content is compromised by their limited language proficiency This book draws on the current practice of EMI in diverse disciplines and university settings and examines how these new pedagogical and learning issues can be addressed The discussion also involves a reflection on the essence of EMI in relation to the use of the first language L1 as the medium of instruction in tertiary education In addition the book includes discussion about how to ensure and maintain the quality of EMI programs and assess the readiness of stakeholders for such programs which include administrators teachers and students The discussion is led by exemplars in Hong Kong and Taiwan where the majority of students are native Chinese speakers in the hope of developing critical perspectives and practical guidelines as references for EMI in other NNEs settings The Open Access version of this book available at <http://www.taylorfrancis.com/books/e> ISBN has been made available under a Creative Commons Attribution Non Commercial No Derivatives 4.0 license

Self-talk in Sport Alexander T. Latinjak, Antonis Hatzigeorgiadis, 2020-03-10 Athletes are naturally exposed to significant psychological challenges in sports but do not wait helplessly for the assistance of sports psychologists or trainers Instead they practise one form or another of self regulation Self talk in Sport explores one such self regulatory strategy self talk the inner voice that accompanies every human being throughout their lives Over time research has revealed many secrets of self talk in sport though many others remain unveiled This book offers you the opportunity to discover the multiple identities of our self talk how the inner coach serves as a rational counterpart to the irrational self and what we need to do to develop our inner voice to reach its maximum self regulatory potential There is a general need for concrete interventions in sport exercise and performance psychology In addition the autonomous functioning of people is a central aim of psychological interventions that align with positive psychology and focus on people s strengths rather than weaknesses In this volume researchers and applied practitioners are shown how they can use self talk interventions to strengthen people s rational self regulation in order to deal with a variety of situations that apply to both sport and other exercise and performance contexts Since self talk is a tangible result of cognitive processes and inner experiences that researchers and applied practitioners can barely access Self talk in Sport is a tool for sports psychologists to understand and interact with hidden parts within athletes that have a major impact on sport and exercise experiences and performance A book demonstrating the diverse both rational and irrational identities of self talk as well as specific interventions to change the inner dialogue of athletes is a fundamental piece in the education of sport scientists English as a Language of Learning, Teaching and Inclusivity Liesel

Hibbert, 2023-08-18 Hibbert explores South Africa s higher education crisis utilising case studies and first hand experiences with English as the language of instruction The historical overview provides a framework with which to understand the complicated nature of using English as a language of instruction in South Africa past and present Student narratives are presented to illustrate mainly breakthroughs but also challenges An overview is provided of imported English teaching methodologies and how they have emerged and developed in the local educational system over decades It is demonstrated how these methodologies relate to socio economic and political events and trends at each juncture By applying defamiliarisation as a research method of investigation students translanguaging struggles are recorded and discussed both pre pandemic and in the pandemic period The experiences of non monolingual English speaking staff and students and of local English African language bilinguals is foregrounded as they are by far the majority in South African higher education and schools The relevance of the experiences and learning paths of those staff and students is enhanced This book aids lecturers across disciplines and English language facilitators in the improvement of English acquisition curricula through exposure to arguments case studies and learning path narratives in this volume and prompts and inspires researchers to develop further theories and experiments in their own context

Language Teacher Education and Technology Jeong-Bae Son, Scott Wendeatt, 2017-06-29 Language teachers competencies in computer assisted language learning CALL are a crucial factor affecting their own implementation of CALL However there is still a concern that many language teachers are not adequately prepared to make effective use of CALL or to identify and evaluate potential CALL solutions This can be the result of many different factors and raises the question of how to train teachers to develop their CALL knowledge and skills to a greater degree The discussion of approaches to training language teachers in the use of technology adopted in areas of Australia the UK and the US provides valuable insights for those already involved in this area and inspiration for those who have some interest in carrying out this kind of training but as yet have little or no experience This book explores the current status of CALL teacher education and discusses issues and challenges CALL teacher educators face in their own contexts Specifically it looks at postgraduate CALL courses offered at different universities to find ways of improving CALL teacher training It represents the first overview of a topic that is relevant to most postgraduate courses in Applied Linguistics or TESOL across the globe The use of technology for language learning and teaching is increasingly common but as is so often the case training for teachers in how to use that technology remains limited to a large extent by lack of expertise among trainers

70 Activities for Tutor Groups Peter Davies, 2017-07-05 The pressure on contact time with students and the results required from it are constantly increasing which means that tutors have to be more and more creative in how they approach their work This book provides some solutions 70 Activities for Tutor Groups explores the many and varied ways in which tutors can provoke and encourage meaningful constructive and focused discussion among their students It takes the form of a classified and cross referenced manual of groupwork activities For ease of use each activity is presented in a common format In a nutshell Aims What is needed Time needed How it works Good example in action Diagram Advantages of this activity Potential problem s Main learning outcome Variation The practical low tech approach taken by Peter Davies means that these activities which have all been trialled and are known to work can be used easily by all tutors at any level and in any subject If you are committed to improving the effectiveness of your work with groups you need look no further
