(Contemporary World Politics) (Chapter – 2) (Freedom)

(Class – XI)

Question 1:

What is meant by freedom? Is there a relationship between freedom for the individual and freedom for the nation?

Answer 1:

Freedom means to do all those things which do not harm others and, are necessary for a person's own development. There is a close relationship between the freedom for individual and for the nation because if a nation is free, every individual of it, will be free to increase their creativities and capabilities.

So, Freedom is:

- A situation that limits the constraints on individuals and allows them to expand their ability and reach their potential.
- Allows the full development of an individual's creativity, sensibility, capabilities and the autonomy to make choices.
- Permits the individuals to exercise their power of reason and judgment

Yes, there is a relationship between freedom for the individual and freedom for the nation:

- A free nation is the one which allows the full development of individual's talent and ability by making less restriction on individuals.
- An individual is said to be free only if s/he resides in a free nation.
- A nation is said to be free if it has freedom as one of its principles and only if it has provided this to its people.
- In this way, individual freedom and national freedom are closely linked to each other.

Question 2:

What is the difference between the negative and positive conception of liberty?

Answer 2:

Negative liberty		Positive liberty
1.	It defines and defends the area of an individual's life where no external authority is allowed to interfere.	1.	It defines the area of society where an individual is free with some constraints made by the society and the government.
2.	It is not concerned with the conditions of the society.	2.	It is concerned with the enabling conditions of the society.

4.	This area comes into personal domain of an individual.	4.	This area comes into social domain of an individual.
5.	More negative liberty leads to more freedom.	5.	More positive liberty checks excess of freedom to an individual, which could be an obstacle for the social stability.
