Character Feelings

What is it?

Character feelings describe a character's emotions in response to actions around them. A character can have many feelings throughout different situations in text.

Inferring Feelings

Authors leave clues in the text that can show you a character's feelings. You can infer feelings about a character by...

- Words - What is the character saying?
- Actions - What is the character doing?
- Thoughts - What is the character thinking?
- Pictures - What do the photos or illustrations show?

Character In each character's story, the evidence that shows their feelings.	Sasha noticed her artwork hanging on the wall board. She noticed her finished and folded artwork. Sasha felt proud.	The teacher told Sasha that she was chosen for an art show, and she would need to put in more pictures. Sasha had all afternoon but none of the pictures were right. She felt sad and frustrated.	The teacher came over, and Sasha and her friend showed her pictures. She said they were perfect. Sasha felt happy and proud.
Feeling	proud	frustrated	happy

Practice

Read about each character below. Use the Character Feelings worksheet to help you choose a feeling for each character. Then, highlight or underline the evidence for each feeling.

Character	Maryanne was excited. She started singing the song, walking her dog with her face lit up as she did. She thought the song sounded like a new song.	After a while, Maryanne noticed she didn't feel happy on the song. She looked down and her dog was gone. He had disappeared from the house. She began crying all around the neighborhood crying his name.	Just as Maryanne thought she was happy, she heard a bark. She looked up and saw a dog. She was walking her dog. She was happy. She was happy. She was happy.
Feeling

Character	It was hot and sunny. The sun was shining. He had to go to the store. He had to go to the store. He had to go to the store.	He had decided to go to the store. He had decided to go to the store. He had decided to go to the store.	When they made it to the end of the road, he saw a dog. He saw a dog. He saw a dog.

There are many kinds of beverages with a complex aroma and taste components. Accurate analysis of such volatile and non-volatile sensory substances is the key to studying their gustatory characteristics. There are hundreds of volatile components in beverages, mainly including aldehydes, ketones, alcohols, acids, and sulfur-containing compounds. In order to systematically study the chemical nature of the inherent aroma of beverages and their flavor formation mechanisms, it is necessary to focus on revealing the metabolic pathways of the key aroma substances at the molecular level. Additionally, it is important to explore the interactions between beverage matrices and aromas as well as the elimination mechanisms for off-flavor formations. It is proposed that the combination of modern instrumental analysis with molecular sensory science and in-depth discussions of the aroma formation pathways and aroma release mechanisms in beverages is a major focus of future aroma research.
