

The third little pig was a hard worker. He took his time and thought about what would make the best house. He decided to make his house out of bricks. He knew it would take a long time, but he also knew that it would be really strong and keep him warm in winter. So, while his brothers were out playing and messing about in the mud, the third little pig continued to work really hard to make his house.

Suddenly, they heard loud footsteps on the ceiling, walking towards the chimney. The third little pig had thought so hard about making a cozy, strong house that he had also built a fireplace under the chimney to keep himself warm. The little pigs had decided they lit the fire in the fireplace. The Big Bad Wolf began to drop down the chimney. He howled in pain as the fire burnt his tail.

One day, when all the pigs were inside their houses, the Big Bad Wolf was looking for something tasty to eat. He knocked on the house made of straw. The Big Bad Wolf said "Little pig, little pig, let me come in!" "Not by the hair on my chinny chin, chin," replied the first little pig. "Then I'll huff and I'll puff and I'll blow your house down!" howled the wolf. With a huff and a puff the wolf blew the straw house down. The little pig screamed and ran off to his brother who lived in the house made of sticks.

Once upon a time there were three little pigs. They were now old enough to leave their mum and dad. They spent most of the summer playing and having fun but as the weather got colder they decided that they needed to start building their houses.
