Lucas M. Bietti, 2014-10-14 This book aims at building a bridge between the social and political aspects of remembering and the cognitive and discourse processes driving such activities By analyzing these cognitive and discursive processes Bietti explores practices of individual and collective remembering in institutional and private settings in relation to periods of political violence in Argentina This books begins to fill the conceptual gap between cognitive oriented approaches to remembering that draw conclusions about how memory functions in the mind without a detailed discourse analysis of the communicative interaction in which this process unfolds and the discourse and pragmatic oriented approaches that are mainly interested in analyzing the rhetorical features of conversational remembering in some cases disregarding that there are underlying cognitive mechanisms that drive the construction of discourses about past experiences The empirical analysis shows that individual and collective remembering in relation to periods of political violence in Argentina vary in pragmatic ways due to the fact that these accounts of the past were constructed with reference to the communicative situation Thus this book also aims at shedding new light on the current practices of commemoration and remembrance related to periods of political violence in Argentina in public and private settings

Trapped by History Darryl Cronin, 2021-04-15 The Australian nation has reached an impasse in Indigenous policy and practice and fresh strategies and perspectives are required Trapped by History highlights a fundamental issue that the Australian nation must confront to develop a genuine relationship with Indigenous Australians The existing relationship between Indigenous people and the Australian state was constructed on the myth of an empty land terra nullius Interactions with Indigenous people have been constrained by eighteenth century assumptions and beliefs that Indigenous people did not have organised societies had neither land ownership nor a recognisable form of sovereignty and that they were savage but could be civilized through the erasure of their culture These incorrect assumptions and beliefs are the foundation of the legal constitutional and political treatment of Indigenous Australians over the course of the country's history They remain ingrained in governmental institutions Indigenous policy making judicial decision making and contemporary public attitudes about Indigenous people Trapped by History shines new light upon historical and contemporary examples where Indigenous people have attempted to engage and dialogue with state and federal governments These governments have responded by trying to suppress and discredit Indigenous rights culture and identities and impose assimilationist policies In doing so they have rejected or ignored Indigenous attempts at dialogue and partnership Other settler countries such as New Zealand Canada and the United States of America have all negotiated treaties with Indigenous people and have developed constitutional ways of engaging cross culturally In Australia the limited recognition that Indigenous people have achieved to date shows that the state is unable to resolve long standing issues with Indigenous people Movement beyond the current colonial relationship with Indigenous Australians requires a genuine dialogue to not only examine the legal and intellectual framework that constrains Indigenous recognition but to create new foundations for a renewed relationship based on intercultural negotiation mutual respect sharing and mutual responsibility This must involve building a shared understanding around addressing past injustices and creating a shared vision for how Indigenous people and other Australians will associate politically in the future

Forget Me Not: The Neuroethical Case Against Memory Manipulation Peter A. DePergola II, 2018-02-12 The first philosophical monograph on the ethics of memory manipulation MM Forget Me Not The Neuroethical Case Against Memory Manipulation contends that any attempt to directly and intentionally erase episodic memories poses a grave threat to the human condition that cannot be justified within a normative moral calculus Grounding its thesis in four evidential effects namely i MM disintegrates autobiographical memory ii the disintegration of autobiographical memory degenerates emotional rationality iii the degeneration of emotional rationality decays narrative identity and iv the decay of narrative identity disables one to seek identify and act on the good DePergola argues that MM cannot be justified as a morally licit practice insofar as it disables one to seek identify and act on the good A landmark achievement in the field of neuroethics this book is a welcome addition to both the scholarly and professional community in philosophical and clinical bioethics
