Whats Different About Books:

What We Talk About When We Talk About Books Leah Price, 2019-08-20 Reports of the death of reading are greatly exaggerated Do you worry that you've lost patience for anything longer than a tweet If so you're not alone Digital age pundits warn that as our appetite for books dwindles so too do the virtues in which printed bound objects once trained us the willpower to focus on a sustained argument the curiosity to look beyond the day's news the willingness to be alone The shelves of the world's great libraries though tell a more complicated story Examining the wear and tear on the books that they contain English professor Leah Price finds scant evidence that a golden age of reading ever existed From the dawn of mass literacy to the invention of the paperback most readers already skimmed and multitasked Print era doctors even forbade the very same silent absorption now recommended as a cure for electronic addictions The evidence that books are dying proves even scarcer In encounters with librarians booksellers and activists who are reinventing old ways of reading Price offers fresh hope to bibliophiles and literature lovers alike Winner of the Phi Beta Kappa Christian Gauss Award 2020

Revelation as Testimony Mats Wahlberg, 2014-11-08 According to the pre modern Christian tradition knowledge of God is mainly testimonial we know certain important truths about God and divine things because God himself has told them to us In academic theology of late this view is often summarily dismissed But to do so is a mistake claims Mats Wahlberg who argues that the testimonial understanding of revelation is indispensable to Christian theology Criticizing the currently common idea that revelation should be construed exclusively in terms of God's self manifestation in history or through inner experience Wahlberg discusses the concept of divine testimony in the context of the debate about how any knowledge of God is possible He draws on resources from contemporary analytic philosophy especially John McDowell and Nicholas Wolterstorff to argue for the intellectual viability of revelation as divine testimony Journals of the House of Commons of Canada Canada. Prophets, Prophecy, and Ancient Israelite Historiography Mark J. Boda,Lissa Wray Beal,2013-01-18 The 18 essays by members of the Canadian Society for Biblical Studies published in this volume showcase the work of leading authorities on ancient Israelite and Jewish historiography as it intersects with the phenomenon of prophecy A deep divide exists between the traditions of historiography and prophecy in the academic study of the Hebrew Bible and the concern of the contributors is to close that gap to expose the close relationship between these two traditions in the literature of the Hebrew Bible The first section of the book explores prophecy and prophets in ancient Israelite and Jewish historiographic books Torah Deuteronomistic History Chronicles Ezra Nehemiah Second Temple Jewish historiography The second section surveys historiography in Israelite and

Jewish prophetic books Isaiah Jeremiah Ezekiel Book of the Twelve Daniel 1 Enoch The contributors engage diverse methodological perspectives in these studies the goal first being to show the role that the prophets played within the great Hebrew historiographic works and second to demonstrate the role that historiography plays within the great Hebrew prophetic works this makes it clear that the influence is bidirectional Prophets Prophecy and Ancient Israelite Historiography will be of value for advanced students and scholars working on historiographic and prophetic materials in the ancient Israelite and Jewish traditions featuring the best of research and analysis and interacting with many major ancient literary traditions of historiography and prophecy
