Nipple Confusion, Uncoordinated Pooping And Spittle Roger Friedman, 2005-01-01 There are the first year milestones that everyone talks about baby's first smile first steps and first words and then there are all the firsts that everyone conveniently forgets to mention The first time you find yourself hanging around the baby store parking lot waiting for the doors to open so you can make an emergency breast pump purchase The first time you discover that girls too can shoot pee across the changing table when you're least expecting it And the first time you discover baby poop smeared on your tie moments before you need to leave for work and it was your wife not you who changed the poopy diaper It's not surprising that firsts like this leave you feeling like you're on your own as a new father and that perhaps you should've skimmed one or two of your partner's what to expect books that appeared everywhere around the house over the course of her pregnancy With Nipple Confusion Uncoordinated Pooping and Spittle The Life of a Newborn's Father Roger Friedman wonderfully captures all of his daughter's firsts in an often humorous sometimes poignant and occasionally grown up manner It's an enjoyable honest account of the confusing terrifying and downright messy world of parenthood Not only does it give you an idea of what might be in store it lets you know you've got plenty of company when it comes to all of those firsts you never imagined

Standing When Life Falls Priscilla S. Walker-Miles, 2011-10. This book is written from my heart after the murder of my sister in 1999. My life was snuffed out of my very being, and there was no light in sight to follow or bring me back home. So much sorrow and sadness was sucking me into a hollow black pit with no bottom. How could this happen to my sister Jill? Why did this happen? How could I go on from here? This was such a cold-blooded and senseless murder, and things like this had never happened in our family or our town for that matter. Nothing could have compared and prepared my family for such a shocking event. Jill was stabbed in the back by a man she knew with a 13-inch butcher knife and died within a few minutes. Aja, Jill's daughter, was in the kitchen and she heard a thump in the bathroom and ran in to see that her mother, her only parent involved in her little life, was bleeding profusely. Aja ran to the neighbors' house to get help and call 911; it was too late when the rescue squad arrived at the hospital. The entire family was there with the exception of me. I lived in Ohio; their faces pressed against the wet, cold glass, looking on in disbelief. My daughter was at the hospital and called me, saying, "mom, mom, Jill is gone." I said, "what do you mean, Jill is gone?" Dreading to hear those fatal words, she said, "she is dead." This shocked the entire hospital; the attending doctor on duty attended school with Jill and knew her, and most of the family. This was a sad, dark day for us. For Princeton, WV, is a small town where everybody knows everybody. We hadn't had many murders of this sort and never had we a murder up close and personal in our family. Jill was so well known that it was hard to pick a jury because she had helped men working on the railroad; we grew up around trains by giving them snacks and cold drinks of water. She went to school with most everyone on the jury, or they had a kid who knew her. Finally, the trial starts, and the reality really sinks in, watching them pass around my sister's
