When Was The National Forest Service Established:

The U.S. Forest Service in the Pacific Northwest Gerald W. Williams, 2009 The Northwest has been at the forefront of forest management and research in the United States for more than one hundred years In The U S Forest Service in the Pacific Northwest Gerald Williams provides an historical overview of the part the Forest Service has played in managing the Northwest s forests Emphasizing changes in management policy over the years Williams discusses the establishment of the national forests in Oregon and Washington grazing on public land the Great Depression World War II and the rise of multiple use management policies He draws on extensive documentation of the post war development boom to explore its effects on forests and Forest Service workers Discussing such controversial issues as roadless areas and wilderness designation timber harvesting forest planning ecosystems and spotted owls Williams demonstrates the impact of 1970s environmental laws on national forest management The book is rich in photographs many drawn from the Gerald W Williams Collection housed in University Archives at Oregon State University Libraries Extensive appendices provide detailed data about Pacific Northwest forests Chronicling a century of the agency s management of almost 25 million acres of national forests and grasslands for the people of the United States The U S Forest Service in the Pacific Northwest is a welcome and overdue resource The

U.S. Forest Service Harold K. Steen, 1976-08 The U S History Service The Retirement Association at the University of Washington Origins of the National Forests Harold K. Steen, 1992 The national forests lay across America s diverse ecological and political geography their 191 million acres occupying about 10 percent of the nation s land base On the occasion of the centennial of the National Forest System Origins of the National Forests examines the issues that have confronted the development management and use of the national forests since their inception in 1891 The national forests are a major source of wood water minerals forage animal life and habitat and wilderness Yet questions of who controls and who benefits from the resources have posed problems and conflicts from the origins of the Forest Service to the present Based on a 1991 Forest History Society conference the essays collected here discuss a range of important topics surrounding our national forests including the relationship between the federal and state systems that regulate the forests the privately owned lands within the forests that are governed by federal statutes state laws and county ordinances the ill defined rights of those who lived on the land long before it was a national forest and were forced off the land and the effect of early policymaking decisions made within the framework of the emerging Conservation Movement Contributors Ron Arnold Pamela A Connors Mary S Culpin Stanley Dempsey Peter Gillis Donn E Headley Robert L Hendricks Stephen Larrabee Patricia Nelson Limerick Dennis L Lynch Michael McCarthy Char Miller Joseph A Miller James Muhn Kevin Palmer Donald Pisani John F Reiger William Rowley Michael Ryan William E Shands Harold K Steen Richard White Gerald W Williams

The American People and the National Forests Samuel P. Hays, 2009-03-08 The year 2005 marked the centennial of the founding of the United States Forest Service USFS Samuel P Hays uses this occasion to present a cogent history of the role of American society in shaping the policies and actions of this agency From its establishment in 1905 under the auspices of the Department of Agriculture timber and grazing management dominated the agency s agenda Due to high consumer demand for wood products and meat from livestock the USFS built a formidable system of forest managers training procedures and tree science programs to specifically address these needs This strong internal organization bolstered the agency during the tumultuous years in the final one third of the century when citizens and scientists were openly critical of USFS policies yet it restricted the agency s vision and adaptability on environmental issues A dearth of ecological capabilities tormented the USFS in 1960 when the Multiple Use and Sustained Yield Act set new statutes for the preservation of wildlife recreation watershed and aesthetic resources This was followed by the National Forest Management Act of 1976 which established standards for the oversight of forest ecosystems The USFS was ill equipped to handle the myriad administrative and technological complexities that these mandates required In The American People and the National Forests Hays chronicles three distinct periods in USFS history provides a summarizing legacy for each and outlines the public and private interests administrators and laws that guided the agency s course and set its priorities He demonstrates how these legacies affected successive eras how they continue to influence USFS policy in the twenty first century and why USFS policies should matter to all of us The Land We Cared For-- David Eugene Conrad,1997 A History of the United States Forest Service in Alaska Lawrence Rakestraw,1981 Traces the history of the forests of Alaska and the development of Forest Service policy
