Labour and Economic Change in Southern Africa c.1900-2000 Rory Pilosof, Andrew Cohen, 2021-06-03 This book explores the social and economic development of Zimbabwe Zambia and Malawi over the course of the twentieth century These three countries have long shared and interconnected pasts All three were drawn into the British Empire at a similar time and the formation of the ill fated Federation of Rhodesia and Nyasaland formally linked these countries together for a decade in the mid twentieth century This formal political relationship created dynamics that resulted in yet closer economic and social links After Federation the economic realities of industry transport and labour supplies meant that these three countries continued to be intricately interconnected Yet despite these connected pasts comparative work on the economic histories of Malawi Zambia and Zimbabwe and how these change over time is rare This book addresses the gap by providing the first comprehensive collection of labour and census data across the twentieth century for these three countries The different economic models and performances of these states offer good comparison allowing researchers to look at different models of development and how these played out over the long term The book provides data on population growth and change industrial and occupational structure and the various shifts in what the economically active population did It will be useful for historians economists development studies scholars and non governmental organisations working on twentieth century and contemporary southern Africa

Studying the Agency of Being Governed Stina Hansson, Sofie Hellberg, Maria Stern, 2014-09-15 This edited volume seeks to provide guidance on how we can approach questions of governing and agency particularly those who endeavour to embark on grounded empirical research by rendering explicit some key challenges tensions dilemmas and confluences that such endeavours elicit Indeed the contributions in this volume reflect the growing tendency in governmentality studies to shift focus to empirically grounded studies The volume thus explicitly aims to move from theory to practice and to step back from the more top down governmentality studies approach to one that examines how one can do study how relations of power affect lives experience and agency This book offers insight into the intricate relations between the workings of governing and the possibility for people's agency on the one hand and about the possible effects of our attempts to engage in such studies on the other In numerous ways and from different starting points the contributions to this volume provide thoughtful insights into and creative suggestions for how to work with the methodological challenges of studying the agency of being governed This work will be of great interest to students and scholars of international relations global governance and research methods
