Pre Lab Work:

Before beginning this laboratory, answer the following questions on your own piece of paper in your notebook:

- Define the following terms:
 - growth rate – describes how fast a population is increasing or decreasing and is dependent upon the birth rate and death rate
 - birthrate – is the number of infants born in a given year/1000 people in the population
 - death rate – is the number of people who die in a given year/1000 individuals in the population
 - zero population growth – when the population is in equilibrium or the number of births and deaths are equal
 - developed country – countries that highly developed economy and advanced technology
 - developing country – countries that are considered to have low standard of living, and undeveloped industrially
 - demographic transition – refers to the transition from high birth and death rates to low birth and death rates
- What is a population explosion? How quickly is our population growing each year? What about each day?
A population explosion is when a population lacks limited resources so is able to grow out of control. The human population is grows about 80 million a year and 219, 178 each day.
- How is the growth rate of the human population calculated?
 $\text{Growth rate} = \text{birth rate} - \text{death rate}$
- What causes a negative population growth? What causes a positive population growth?
Negative population growth occurs when the birth rate is less than the death rate
Positive population growth occurs when the birth rate exceeds the death rate
- Why do the two graphs appear to have a different shape?
The population growth rate was much slower in the earlier years. The J-curve shows exponential population growth and the graphs are not drawn to the same scale.
- Using a piece of paper, create the following charts:

Country	Birthrate (%)	Death rate (%)	Population Growth 2005	Population Growth 2050	Demographic Transition	Relative Place in Transition	Sketch graph showing Blue & Pink Line
USA	2.06	0.51	0.92	-0.06	1.55	5

Current Catalog National Library of Medicine (U.S.), 1970 Includes subject section name section and 1968 1970 technical reports Daily Report ,1989 Energy Abstracts for Policy Analysis ,1987 Earth Trusteeship and the Sovereign State Klaus Bosselmann, 2025-03-31 This book makes an argument for the legal role and responsibility of sovereign states in the trusteeship of the Earth In 1972 the first photo of the Earth Blue Marble sparked the imagination and need to care for our planet In the same year the world's first UN conference on the environment adopted the Stockholm Declaration proclaiming that the Earth's natural resources and ecosystems must be safeguarded for the benefit of present and future generations Today the Earth's ecological systems deteriorate at accelerating speeds as if Earth does not matter to law and governance But what if it does Earth system science and related jurisprudence provide clear guidance for effective law and governance in particular the trusteeship responsibilities of sovereign states This book closes the gap between the promises of international environmental agreements and the concept of state sovereignty Maintaining that state sovereignty is not an end in itself but rather a means to protect the autonomy and freedom of citizens the book develops the argument that sovereignty includes fiduciary duties for matters of global concern such as human rights and ecological sustainability Autonomy and freedom of citizens can only prosper if states protect human rights and ecological sustainability both inside and outside national boundaries This is the logic behind global governance And as this book demonstrates at its core stands the ancient idea of trusteeship that is of acting on behalf and to the benefit of those who cannot act for themselves This book s argument that Earth trusteeship and the sovereign state mutually condition each other will appeal to scholars of environmental law international law and environmental science and others with an interest in ecology and global governance
