Michalopoulos,2020-04-06 Ending poverty continues to be a major challenge for the global community It is even more urgent and relevant today when the world is facing the covid 19 pandemic as it was two decades ago when four women rose to prominent positions as ministers in charge of international development in their governments Ending Global Poverty Four Women s Noble Conspiracy tells the story of Eveline Herfkens from the Netherlands Hilde F Johnson from Norway Clare Short from the United Kingdom and Heidemarie Wiecezorek Zeul from Germany who joined forces to challenge the establishment policies of international institutions Named for the Norwegian Abbey where they formalized their collaboration in 1999 the so called Utstein Four embarked on a conspiracy of implementation using foreign aid as a tool to end global poverty rather than pursue narrow political or commercial interests They helped achieve primary education for women used developing countries debt relief to lift individuals out of poverty and put development partners in charge of setting priorities and implementing programs of assistance Their story of female empowerment and the importance of working together is a crucial lesson and Ending Global Poverty focuses on the implications of this for today s development challenges including the struggle to achieve the 2030 Sustainable Development Goals which is becoming more difficult every day The Utstein Four s collaboration lasted for only about half a dozen years but their influence continues to be felt Much has been achieved but some lessons have been forgotten and large new challenges remain Ending Global Poverty Four Women s Nobel Conspiracy considers the lasting legacy of the Utstein group and the lessons that their experience of commitment collaboration and leadership offers to a new generation of leaders as they work to eradicate global poverty and achieve sustainable development Primates in Flooded Habitats Katarzyna Nowak,Adrian A. Barnett,Ikki Matsuda,2019-01-03 A ground breaking study of primates that live in flooded habitats around the world Ecological Changes in the Zambezi River Basin Mzime Ndebele-Murisa,2021-01-11 This book provides an analysis of the ecological conditions and ecosystem goods and services of the Zambezi River Basin ZRB the fourth largest river in Africa Various environmental and anthropogenic factors inclusive of climate environmental flows hydrology morphology pollution and land use changes among others and their interactions are considered as drivers of the river ecosystems The impacts of these drivers on aquatic biota river ecological integrity and the livelihoods of surrounding communities are analysed within the socio economic policy context The book goes beyond the usual inventories and basic research by using the comparative research method CRM in a trans disciplinary manner This CRM analytical approach in this book seeks to interrogate the differences or similarities in socio economic systems livelihoods ecological systems ecosystem goods and services their usage and management under the seemingly different cultural socio economic conditions expected across borders that are within the ZRB The multidisciplinary approach also connects the typical ecological research with social dimensions in a holistic manner The book therefore provides empirical and research based evidence to support strategic planning and policy development in the wake of ecological changes that nations and indeed regions such as the ZRB are grappling with while seeking to sustainably manage precious river systems

Social Learning and Innovation in Contemporary Hunter-Gatherers Hideaki Terashima, Barry S. Hewlett, 2016-10-22 This is the first book to examine social learning and innovation in hunter gatherers from around the world More is known about social learning in chimpanzees and nonhuman primates than is known about social learning in hunter gatherers a way of life that characterized most of human history The book describes diverse patterns of learning and teaching behaviors in contemporary hunter gatherers from the perspectives of cultural anthropology ecological anthropology biological anthropology and developmental psychology The book addresses several theoretical issues including the learning hypothesis which suggests that the fate of Homo sapiens and Neanderthals in the last glacial period might have been due to the differences in learning ability It has been unequivocally claimed that social learning is intrinsically important for human beings however the characteristics of human learning remain under a dense fog despite innumerable studies with children from urban industrial cultures Controversy continues on problems such as do hunter gatherers teach If so what types of teaching occur who does it how often under what contexts and so on The book explores the most basic and intrinsic aspects of social learning as well as the foundation of innovative activities in everyday activities of contemporary hunter gatherer people across the earth The book examines how hunter gatherer core values such as gender and age egalitarianism and extensive sharing of food and childcare are transmitted and acquired by children Chapters are grouped into five sections 1 theoretical perspectives of learning in hunter gatherers 2 modes and processes of social learning in hunter gatherers 3 innovation and cumulative culture 4 play and other cultural contexts of social learning and innovation 5 biological contexts of learning and innovation Ideas and concepts based on the data gathered through an intensive fieldwork by the authors will give much insight into the mechanisms and meanings of learning and education in modern humans
